Soil payments face rejection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid congressional cries of whipcracking, bullet-biting and bellyaching over the battle of the budget, President Nixon has lost an opening skirmish—but indications are that he may eventually veto to victory.

After rejecting Republican ideas for compromise, the House voted Wednesday to require Nixon to restart the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) he ordered halted last Christmas. REAP helps farmers save their soil.

With 199 Democrats and 52 Republicans in favor of making REAP mandatory with $225 million through June 30, Nixon was beaten 251 to 142. Twenty Democrats voted against the bill.

But, if it had been a ballot to override a veto, Nixon would have won by 11 votes. A two-thirds majority is needed to override. Many believe another presidential veto is assured if it passes the Senate.

When several Republicans raised the threat of veto, Rep. W.R. Poage, D-Tex., chairman of the Agriculture Committee and chief advocate of the bill, responded in House debate: "Let him crack his whip!"

But Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Airx., said Nixon "asked Congress to go with him in cutting expenditures ... and this is the first bullet we're being asked to bite. It may not be much money, but the world is watching the House to see if we have the courage to do the tough thing."

Cold front brings snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cold front stretching from southern Texas to the eastern Great Lakes triggered snow, sleet, rain and freezing drizzle over much of the nation today as temperatures dropped into the teens as far south as the Texas Panhandle.

Thuderstorms dumped heavy rains on Arkansas and Tennessee during the night. Jonesboro, Ark. soaked up nearly 2 and Pine Bluff, Ark., 1.4 inches. An inch of snow accumulated in Pueblo, Colo.; Lubbock, Tex.; Flint, Mich., and Toledo and Dayton, Ohio.

Snow whitened the region from the eastern Great Lakes southward, turning to rain over Kentucky. Drizzle and rain fell from Alabama along the west slopes of the Applachians into northern New England.

A few scattered showers remained from central California to southwest Oregon and skies were mostly cloudy over the Great Basin. Clear skies prevailed over the northern Plains and the western Great Lakes region.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 11 at International Falls., Minn., to 67 at Corpus Christi, Tex.

Train derails near Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fifteen cars of a Norfolk and Western freight train derailed Wednesday scattering 200 tons of coke along the railroad bed on the outskirts of the village of Lockbourne, south of here.

There were no injuries and damage was limited to the freight cars, rails and a utility pole, a line spokesman said.

Elwood Clemmons, engineer of the 40 car train, said he believed the weight of the cars pushed the ties and the rails out of alignment because of soft ground.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Wet and snowy weather returned to most of Ohio Wednesday night and early Thursday with conditions expected to change Friday into generally fair weather but lower temperatures.

A cold front has moved eastward across the state, but another is approaching from the northwest.

Snow accumulations were small in the early morning hours but were expected to increase slightly during the day.

The National Weather Service said the cold front which began moving across the state was situated in the extreme eastern edge of the state by early Thursday.

Snow accumulations of an inch were reported by both Toledo and Dayton at 1 a.m. and the snow depth was up to an inch at Cleveland by 6 a.m. Snow depth reports were incomplete over the remainder of the state, but eastern Ohio had very little as the precipitation during most of the night was in the form of rain.

Snow depths of one to three inches are predicted for most of the state before it ends later today.

Along with the snow the cold front brought much colder air into Ohio and temperatures are expected to continue falling and be in the 20s throughout the state by early this afternoon. Low readings in the 5 to 15 degree range are forecast for tonight and cold wave warnings are in effect for all of Ohio except those areas adjacent to Lake Erie.

Snow will end gradually from the west today and clearing is expected in most of the state tonight except the snow belt areas along the shores of Lake Erie and over the higher elevations of northeastern Ohio. Here snow flurries and locally heavier snow squalls could add some snow accumulation tonight.

With the generally fair weather and continued cold temperatures expected for Friday, there will be increasing cloudiness and a chance of snow again Friday night or Saturday as the new frontal system approaches from the northwest.

Moderating temperatures with a chance of snow Saturday. Lows Saturday and Sunday in the teens. Highs in the 20s and 30s. Lows Monday in the 20s. Highs in the 30s and 40s.

Rogers sees Laos truce

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today the United States expects a Laos cease-fire soon and a withdrawal of all foreign forces from that country.

By U.S. estimate, some 60,000 North Vietnamese troops are in Laos, which has been a prime transit route for North Vietnamese forces heading to neighboring South Vietnam.

Testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Rogers also got clear notice from Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., to go slow on pushing postwar U.S. reconstruction aid for North Vietnam.

became "effective today" — touching off the UTU strike.

"They reduce the size of train crews from three to two and eliminate overmanning, but only as jobs are vacated because of retirement, death, etc.," said the trustees of the new work rules.

The Penn Central goal is to eliminate 5,700 jobs by 1980 and, thus, save about $100 million annually.

The walkout, if not swiftly settled, could deal a death blow to the giant system. The railroad says it is now losing $600,000 daily and will need around $800' million in fresh federal money to become solvent again by 1976 — and only then if at least 3,000 of its 20,000 miles of track are discontinued.

Life expectancy shortened for American returnees ?

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — If previous wars are any guide, prisoners returning from captivity in North or South Vietnam may have longterm medical problems and less-than-normal life expectancy, the top Pentagon consultant on POWs said today.

Roger E. Shields, prisoner-of-war specialist for the assistant secretary of defense for international security, said studies of men released during the Korean War show "that POWs have medical problems that stay with them through life and that life expectancy is measurably shortened."

Shields arrived Wednesday at Clark Air Base, the Asian headquarters for the U.S. prisoner returnee program that he played a large part in designing.

"We can't make up to these guys for time lost," he said, noting that doctors who have studied previous prisoners urge that the Vietnam returnees be eased gradually into normal life.

The length of captivity is the major difference between the Vietnam POWs and the captives released after World War II and the Korean War, Shields said.

"Before, the longest time an American POW had been held was 3½ years," he said. "Now the average length of internment is more than four years, and some POWs are into their eighth and ninth years of captivity."

He added that the attitudes of Americans during the Vietnam war "have not been the traditional attitudes of Americans during a conflict. The families have had to live with this, and these men will also have to adjust to it."

Full-scale rioting brings 5 more deaths in Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — Five more persons were killed in Belfast as gun battles, bombing, rioting and arson raged across the capital of Northern Ireland.

The victims Wednesday night included a fireman shot by a sniper, a youngster murdered by an assassination squad and three Protestant guerrillas killed in a shootout with the British army. The confirmed death toll in 3½ years of religious warfare rose to 717.

Rioting was widespread; at one time every available fire engine in Belfast was at work; and the army was under fire from both sides.

"We have lost count of the number of homes and shops bombed and burned," a police spokesman said during the evening.

Roman Catholic homes also were burned in at least three other towns.

Protestant hoodlums roaming in packs called Tartan Gangs desecrated a Roman Catholic church in Belfast and started to smash up the home of the parish priest, but the army drove them off with a barrage of rubber bullets.

Other Tartans set fire to another Catholic church and besieged a convent school for mentally handicapped children. The 25 children were getting ready for bed when a hail of rocks and bottles smashed the dormitory windows. One of the nuns took the children downstairs and led them in a round of songs to take their minds off the rioting. But the barrage shattered the stained glass windows of the tiny chapel.

Again the army drove the mob off with rubber bullets.

Dozens of others were injured during the day, including two men treated for sword wounds, hospitals reported. No details on that were available.

The bloodshed coincided with a 24-hour strike called by militant Protestants to protest the detention of two suspected terrorists and to demand the return of the suspended provincial parliament.

Harper pointed out that the exhibiting merchants will be able to erect their displays April 5, and April 9 has been set aside for the exhibitors to tear remove them.

The Home Show hours will be from 6-9 p.m. Friday, April 6; 1-9 p.m. Saturday, April 7, and 1-6 p.m. April 8.

Miscellaneous prizes will be given away every half hour during all three days of the Home Show, and a grand prize will be awarded at the close of each session.

The general admission will be 25 cents per person, according to Harper.

Steve Reisinger, of the Washington Savings Bank, will serve as Harper's co-chairman for the annual event.

Elderly nurse appeals slash in VA benefits

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Veterans Administration will hold a hearing for an 80-year-old Army nurse whose VA benefits were cut after her Social Security benefits were increased.

The VA agreed to the hearing after the woman, Elice C. Kermath, filed a class-action suit in U.S. District Court seeking to get the VA decision overturned. Judge Thomas Lambros issued a temporary injunction against the VA and ordered the agency to restore Mrs. Kermath's pension payments pending the outcome of the suit.

Lambros said he would lift the order once the VA hearing is arranged, but that since the suit affects all veterans receiving benefits, it would continue to determine whether a federal agency can terminate benefits to an individual without providing administrative hearing and appeal procedures.

Opinion And Comment

Prospects for house reform

One writer reporting on the creation of a bipartisan committee to study House operations and propose reforms cited some illuminating examples of what might be done. This account noted, for instance, that "the study committee might see fit to recommend that welfare aid to the needy be shifted out of the House Ways and Means Committee, whose members and staff are far more attuned to trade and tax matters."

Or, said the reporter, the committee "might also find that health care issues might better be handled by some committee other than Interstate and Foreign Commerce; or that there should be closer coordination of foreign policy issues now scattered among a variety of committees." Just so. There are an abundance of possibilities for improvement in how the House functions.

It may be over-optimistic to suppose that the House is genuinely serious about reform — serious, that is, to the point of accepting necessary change even though it tromps on influential toes. Still, it is encouraging to find that a zealous and informed advocate of reform has been named to head the committee.

The chairman, Rep. Richard Bolling of Missouri, has written books on the subject, and has not been at all reticent about badgering his colleagues to improve the efficiency of House operations. There is reason to hope that the committee will come up with sound recommendations for change. It is at that point that we shall see how determined the House is to improve its performance.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

A cease-fire for Northern Ireland?

The story goes that Izzy Stone, who used to publish his own I.F. Stone's Weekly and now contributes to the New Left-oriented New York Review of Books, recently cornered conservative editor Bill Buckley and invited him to make a mutual pilgrimage to the wailing wall.

"Bill," he has been quoted as saying, "we've been betrayed, you by Nixon, me by Mao Tse-tung."

Mr. Buckley assures me the story is apocryphal, but the attitudes it illustrates are real. What has happened is that the Nixon-Kissinger team, by arranging a Big-Power compromise over Indochina, has jolted the hopes of both Left and Right of winning a clear-cut victory in a struggle that is bound to continue in a clandestine way.

Whether President Nixon and Henry Kissinger have been wise will not be known for some time to come. To enlist Mao-Tse-tung and Brezhev in a common enterprise of establishing a ceasefire in Vietnam, Nixon has had to commit himself to bailing out both of the great Communist powers in their present predicaments.

The Russians are getting absolutely essential supplies of wheat from the U.S.; Peking has been reassured that Washington will throw its diplomatic and economic weight into the scales to keep the Soviets from making a preemptive strike at Red Chinese atomic installations in inner Asia. The Nixon largesse means that both the Soviet and Red Chinese governments will survive, possibly to grow sufficiently arrogant again to confront us to our mortal peril in the early Nineteen Eighties.

WELL, the Eighties are a long way off, and, as John Maynard Keynes once said, "in the long run we are all dead." The war-weary American people, wishing to live in the present, have forced the surcease today no matter what it may portend for the next generation. Now that the Nixon-Kissinger team has chosen to make the best of the situation, compelling the Communists to damp down at least one "war of liberation," why not squeeze some extra drops out of the bittersweet fruit0 There is the guerrilla war in Northern Ireland, for example. Surely the British would welcome U.S. help in keeping Soviet-made rockets from reaching the Irish Republican Army (IRA) underground revolutionaries in bloody Ulster.

If a surveillance team can police the amount of miliary replacement equipment reaching Indochina by devious jungle routes, it would surely be a much easier matter to dry up arms going to IRA terrorists. Britain and America control all the sea lanes leading to Ireland, and the Jack Lynch government in Dublin is tired of gun running and bloodshed along its Ulster border. If the Soviets want U.S. grain and U.S. oil-and-gas capital equipment, an extended quid pro quo could be a moratorium on those arms going to the IRA.

THE ATTEMPT to unify Northern and Southern Ireland by force was always idiotic, for, no matter how bad the terror, the commitment of the great middle to the basic bourgeois virtues of making a living was too powerful to yield to the embattled gunmen of the two extremes. In spite of all the violence of the past three years, Ulster has continued to grow economically.

Export sales for 1971 rose from $1.86 billion to $2.1 billion, an increase of 13 per cent over the previous year. The American and other foreign investment in Ulster has continued to expand; it was $300 million in 1966 and it is $550 million today.

Whatever the strife in the streets, there has been peace on the factory floor. The Belfast shipyards have recently received $25 million in orders from Norway for bulk cargo carriers. So it has been business as usual in the bread-and-butter areas of Ulster life.

Nixon and Kissinger have made a good beginning toward liquidating the Maoist-Che Guevara world guerilla movement. Given a continued toughness in our negotiating stance, both Peking and Moscow can surely be prevailed upon to call off their "liberationist" dogs wherever they may happen to be.

The sudden, heart-breaking death of Lyndon Johnson carries a very personal poignancy for black people. Not since Abraham Lincoln has a President contributed so much to the struggle for racial equality.

Important as they were, the accomplishments of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman pale beside those of Johnson. And where John Kennedy recognized the validity of our struggle, Lyndon Johnson embraced it, made it his own.

Ironically, Johnson was a Southerner and was initially chosen as Vice President to win Southern votes. Yet he never failed black people. Like Harry Truman, his origins were among working people. He always enjoyed the trust and support of working people, even in his early days as a Texas congressman when his basic constituency was the Mexican-Americans in his district.

His Cabinet, the finest ever assembled, included the first Negro of Cabinet rank, Robert Weaver. His appointments to the Supreme Court were uniformly progressive and included the first black, Thurgood Marshall. And, in his selection of Hubert Humphrey as Vice President, he chose the one man who throughout his political life had been the most closely identified with civil rights when other, less controversial figures were available.

IT IS in his civil rights legialation that the Johnson legacy is most enduring and indispensable. Yet even here his detractors often accuse him of achieving no more than the fulfillment of the Kennedy program.

And while it is true that some Great Society legislation represented an extension of those programs formulated during Kennedy's Administration, it is also true that Lyndon Johnson's vision extended well past the New Frontier.

His successes were often the result of his political skills. Johnson was able, perhaps more successfully than any other President, to fashion an alliance between those sharing common interests and common principles. And he did it not by appealing to fear, but by an ennobling campaign which evoked a national sense of mission to correct centuries of racial wrongs and respond to the plight of the impoverished.

He perceived that it was not enough to guarantee minorities the right to purchase a home or eat in a restaurant unless the immense economic gulf between black and white closed. This realization produced the fundamental Great Society programs, an agenda to make jobs plentiful, housing affordable and education attainable.

Much of the Great Society succeeded. Countless blacks found entrance into jobs that, because of discrimination or lack of training, had been foreclosed. The percentage of Negroes enrolled in universities exceeded all expectations. Negroes made significant political advances in the South.

YET the tragedy of Lyndon Johnson, if there is such a thing, is that his remarkable successes are passed over while the failures are magnified. For the most essential point about Lyndon Johnson, a point so often missed, is that he never lost the will to bring about social progress. Even during times of shattering social convulsion his vision remained steady, while those of his critics so often faltered.

Some have suggested that the Vietnamese War obscured Johnson's social initiatives. I cannot disagree more strongly. Four Presidents — Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon — have supported intervention in Southeast Asia: if blame must be placed, all should share in it.

Nor can we forget that many of those who hold Johnson's foreign policies responsible for domestic shortcomings have long since abandoned the struggle for racial justice for other, less complex, less painful causes.

Lyndon Johnson never surrendered to reaction, even when urban turmoil cost him desperately needed support. That is why we grieved when he left the White House, for we recognized that we might never again experience his rare quality of leadership. Now, for the same reason, we mourn his passing, a death which robs our nation of a man of unquestioned stature and the black people of a trusted friend and ally.

New wings for the mail

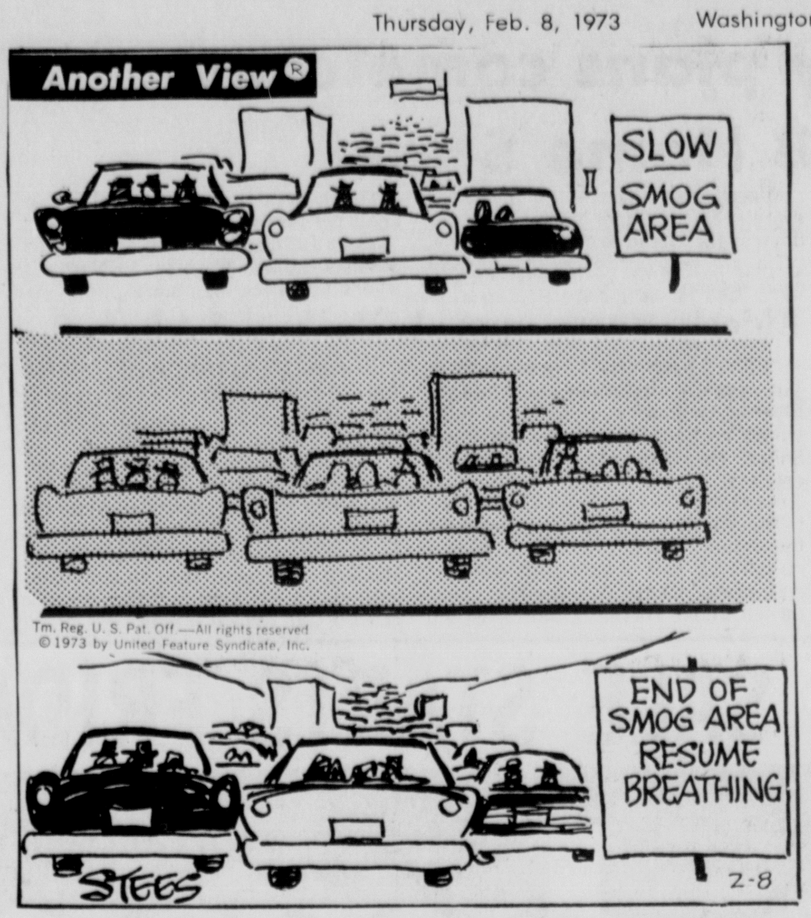

An intriguing though perhaps impracticable idea was broached in a recent letter to the Los Angeles Times by W. J. Thompson of that city. His comment dealt with that perennial subject, the slowness of the mail service:

"I have a simple solution to suggest. All postal service employes will be paid by check, mailed from randomly selected locations in plain envelopes. The resultant pain and inconvenience of consistently late receipt of their own wages will certainly prompt concern for efficient mail service."

A devilish concept, no doubt, when considered from the standpoint of the postal worker. Quite possibly an unfair one, too, since there must be many such workers who strive with might and main to speed the mails and could not be driven to greater effort by such a goad.

All the same, much experience with lethargic mail deliveries tempts one to think it might be worth a try. Slow workers would be stimulated to pep up their performance, and that would work to everyone's advantage.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

If you can't afford — don't buy

DEAR ABBY: I teach a course here in Dalton Junior College in consumer self protection, so I was especially interested in that letter from "Broke and Disgusted," whose wife insisted on an expensive wedding for their daughter even though they were in hock up to their ears. May I offer some practical suggestions?

Throw away your credit cards, and don't buy ANYTHING you don't have the cash. If you can'tkeep up with the Joneses, stay away from them. When it comes to buying groceries, check the newspaper ads carefully and compare prices. You can save a small fortune and eat a lot better if you buy house brands. Develop some self control! Don't buy anything on impulse. Go to two or three other stores and see what's available there, then wait a day or two and think it over. You'll be surprised how much you DON'T want what you thought you thought you couldn't live without yesterday.

RAYMOND L. CHAMBERS,
DALTON, GA.

DEAR PROFESSOR: Gee, I wish I were in Dixie. I'd sign up for your course. You make a lot of sense.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this from the hospital after having given birth to our first child. He is a healthy, beautiful baby boy and we are so thrilled because my husband is an only son, and now we are assured of having someone to carry on the family name.

My husband and I decided to name our son. Please don't mention the name if you use this letter. It's an unusual name, but my husband and I both like it. Well, last evening his mother called and begged me to please change the baby's name. She said that nobody in the family liked the name we selected and she thought out of respect to my father in law, we should have named the baby after HIM. (My father-in-law is still living.)

I didn't know what else to say, so I just said, "I will talk to my husband about it."

I spoke to my husband, and he said he will leave it up to me. Abby, now I am on the spot. I don't want his family against me, but I don't want to change the baby's name. Can you help me?

NEW MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Tell your husband that you don't want the responsibility of making that decision alone. Discuss it-and let it be known that the decision was jointly made. And since you wrote to me, I'm all for naming the boy exactly what you prefer!

DEAR ABBY: I am 83 and live alone; my principal activities since my retirement from the teaching staff at Purdue University are "relative hunting and working crossword puzzles. I take time out every morning to read the headlines, editorials, and Dear Abby.

I am moved to comment about the Dad who took his 14-year-old son to a football game, left at halftime to take some pills for his asthma, and had not returned by the time the game had ended. The frightened lad waited by his Dad's parked car until the stadium lights were turned off, then made his way to a phone and called his sister to come and get him. Together they drove to the nearest police station to report the "missing" Dad, and there they learned that he had been locked up by a policeman for "drunkenness."

That reminded me of a similar incident which occurred near Corning, N.Y., where I was raised. A local workman on his way home from work tied his horse and wagon at the watering trough and went into a bar for a drink. Later that evening the local constable found him leaning against a tree and locked him up for drunkenness. The next morning the horse was still at the trough, but its owner was dead-in jail. He had been sick, not drunk.

Curbstone comments

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments by the Pavement Plato:

Do you ever stop to think how much of your life is spent in performing rituals?

A wild animal lives largely by obeying his instincts, a human being by the rituals he follows.

Rituals are the little habits of conduct by which we meet the common occurences of our existence. They govern us from dawn to dawn, from Monday through Sunday. They are helpful because they tell us what to do in most situations, but sometimes they also bore us half to death.

They become too patterned, too chorelike, and at times we yearn to break out of the confinement of rituals and do something wild, free and mildly insane. And, of course, at times most of us do.

Here are a few commonplace rituals:

Shaving, the most irksome task of any man's life.

Brushing your teeth.

Spraying something in your armpits so you won't smell like nature meant you to.

Telling a hospital patient he looks swell when he looks like hell.

Saying something nice about the hero of the occasion at a funeral, when your private opinion is that the world would have been better off if he had died ten years before.

Picking up bar and restaurant checks for liberated women.

Laughing at the right time when the boss tells a joke, no matter whether you memorized the joke yourself when you were in high school.

Congratulating the pastor of your church on Sunday on the powerful sermon he preached that you never really listened to.

Going to functions where they have after dinner speeches.

Telling our innocent little children how they must behave if they want to grow up and be safe and happy — like us.

So we wear out our lives from birth to the tomb, performing this little ritual...that little ritual. What would happen if for a single day every person in the world ceased to go through any of his usual rituals whatsoever?

That's easy. We'd all be thrown in jail before nightfall. Without rituals, people get into nothing but trouble.

Appalling campaign cost

In the 1968 presidential campaign the three major candidates, Richard M. Nixon, Hubert H. Humphrey and George C. Wallace, spent a total of around 44 million dollars. It now appears that in the past election President Nixon's outlay alone topped that figure by some two million.

Sen. George McGovern's campaign expenditures were well short of that, but he also poured out an enormous sum in his drive for the White House. The point here made is not that one major candidate for president outspent the other, but that the whole business of electing a chief executive for the nation has become appallingly expensive.

That is not a new conclusion, certainly; people have been throwing up their hands in alarm over presidential campaign spending for a long time now. It is a source of fresh dismay that, despite campaign spending reforms, the 1972 expenditures were greater than ever. Congress had better get back at the question.

Link coal comeback to eased pollution rules

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The growing need for energy should greatly boost the demand for coal, industry officials say, but rising costs and environmental regulations are hampering the process.

Charles T. Jones, vice president of Amherst Coal Co., says coal demand is expected by some to double over the next 15 years. Because of the energy crisis and the growing need for fuel, he says, "I can't help but be a little optimistic."

However, Jones and other industry officials said at a news conference Wednesday, much of the nation's coal may be virtually outlawed if technology is not available to meet 1975 pollution standards, and labor and regulatory costs are driving the cost of mining up, reducing American coal's competitiveness in the world markets.

L. James Huegel, executive vice president of Consolidation Coal Co., said that if technology to meet 1975 sulphur oxide standards is not ready to go on time, 41 per cent of Consolidation's northern West Virginia producton (some 32 million tons in 1972; will be outlawed.)

He blamed the sharp environmental restrictions on "a definite overreaction. I think we all recognize these (air quality compliance) schedules must be pushed back."

Firms represented in the news conference included Consolidation, Amherst, Carbon Fuel Sales Co., Eastern Associated Coal Corp., Valley Camp Coal Co. and Island Creek Coal Co.

Exports make up roughly one-third of the state's coal market, Huegel said. But the cost of mining is pushing prices far above those quoted for coal from Australia, Canada and Poland.

Utilities purchase nearly half of the state's production for electrical generation, Huegel added. But price and environmental restrictions are forcing utilities to turn to other fuels, notably imported oil.

"The United States can't continue buying foreign oil at the rate we are now," Jones said. He noted that the imports are straining America's balance of payments overseas, and that other nations now need much of the same oil. "Coal is the only alternative."

Complaints by some major utilities that they cannot obtain sufficient low-sulphur coal in West Virginia to meet the 1975 air standards have been answered by charges from environmentalists that they are ignoring the state's large reserves of low-sulphur coal.

Huegel and the other executives said critics must realize there is more to the situation than simple reserve tonnage figures.

Much of the low-sulphur coal in reserve is in thin seams of around 40 inches, and miners are not eager to work in such conditions. Other seams, although low in sulphur, are low in quality and not compatible with many power plant furnace designs.

Hear arguments on busing plan

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Oral arguments on a massive busing plan for students in Detroit and 52 suburban school districts were scheduled today before the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

A three-judge panel of the circuit court ruled on the case Dec. 8, agreeing with the findings of U.S. District Court Judge Stephen Roth that the Detroit school system is segregated.

Shipping season ends

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)— The longest shipping season in Great Lakes history was scheduled to end today with the downbound passage through the Soo Locks of the A.H. Ferbert and the Cason J. Calloway, two iron ore carriers owned by United States Steel Corp.

But the court vacated its own order Jan. 16, and agreed to convene a full nine-judge panel to re-hear arguments on the controversial plan.

Wedding vows repeated by couple wed 73 years

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — John Virgil Kemplen, 95, and his wife Leona, 89, repeated their marriage vows on their 73rd anniversary Wednesday in a nursing home.

"We want to show that a man and wife can live together unto death—there's no use in separation," said Kemplen.

He suffered polio in 1945 and lost his eyesight six years later. Mrs. Kemplen, in a traditional white wedding dress and veil borrowed from her granddaughter, is confined to a wheel chair.

She said the second marriage was her idea. A number of couples at the Oxford View Nursing Home have done it, she said.

"Through the fear of God and love of a woman, you can have a marriage that lasts this long," said her husband.

They feared that they wouldn't live long enough for the repeat of their marraige vowels on the anniversary. Both became ill in November.

The Kemplens were married Feb. 7, 1900 in a double ceremony with her sister Willie and his brother, James, at Albany, Ky.

She said her husband was "the prettiest man I ever saw. I met him two weeks before our wedding at my father's home in Albany."

Kemplen became an evangelist in 1909 and served in various churches, and moved to Hamilton, Ohio, in 1929.

Sometimes he "preached with patched pants," Leona recalled.

"Evangelism was my greatest challenge," he said, adding that his motto was: "God first, Leona and the family second, and helping people in the world."

During the first year of their marriage she had typhoid fever.

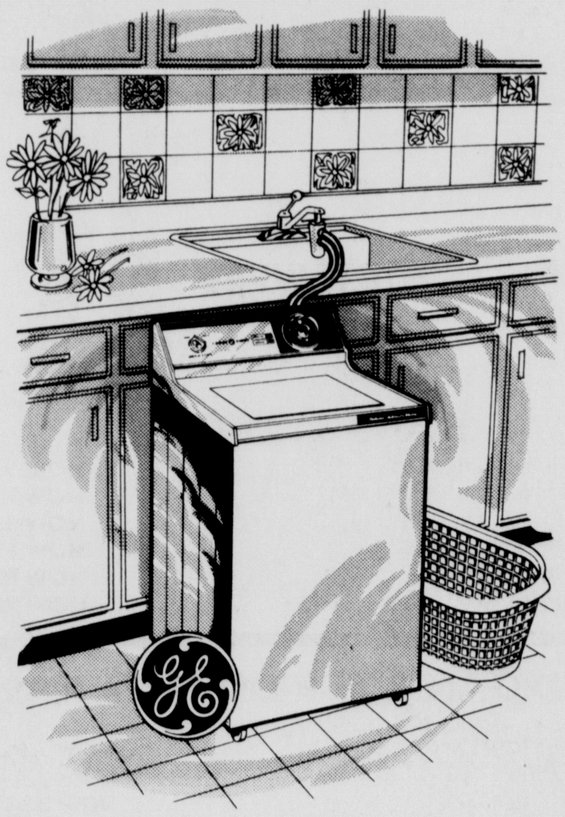

"I've been sick all my life," she said, "I was struck by a car, had a stroke and broke my hip.

"The greatest thing is that he stayed with me, even though I was sick. He always said I'm worth a million dollars to him."

Martha Guild studies women of the Bible

Members of Martha Guild, First Christian Church, are studying the women of the Bible. Mrs. Naomi Helm, teacher, presents one at each guild meeting.

Seventeen were present when devotions were given by Miss Margaret Gibson and Mrs. Carl Meriweather. Reports were made by Mrs. Marvin Smith a. ' Miss Norma Flee.

The group will make tray favors for the Hospital for Easter. Mrs. Ward Brown is chairman of the cancer pad project, and Mrs. Smith, for the Mother's Day Tea.

On Monday, members will meet at the church at 10 a.m. for an all-day work session. Each is asked to bring a sack lunch, scizzors and needles.

Cards were signed for shut-ins and Valentines prepared to mail to patients in the nursing homes.

Quilt squares were packaged for Miss Linda Waterman, who is a missionary in Africa.

Mrs. Orpha Willis, a guest, urged all to attend the Fellowship meeting, planned soon. The next meeting will be March 6 at the church. Mrs. Carl Meriweather will be in charge of devotions.

Mix together bacon fat or peanut butter with bird seed. Pack into the open spaces of pine cones. Attach cords to the top of cones and hang where you can see them. This will draw many wild birds to your yard.

Before starting on a long trip, put together a basic emergency kit, labeling each medication. It's a good idea, too, for each member of the family making the trip to have a thorough physical examination before starting out.

Engagement announced

MISS TERESA FREEMAN

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Freeman, of Auxier, Ky., announce the engagement of their daughter, Teresa, to Gale E. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard E. (Terry) Moore, of Sabina.

Both are seniors at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, Ky., where Miss Freeman is a secondary education major in Spanish and Mr. Moore is a data processing major in the college of business administration.

Miss Freeman is a former member of Kappa Delta Tau Sorority and a 1969 graduate of Prestonburg High School. Her fiance is a 1969 graduate of East Clinton High School, Lees Creek.

A June wedding is planned.

Class topic is 'Freedom'

The articles, "Freedom from Fear" by Franklin Delano Roosevelt, "Freedom of Worship", by Grace Noll Crowell, and "Take Time" were presented for devotions, by Mrs. Rex Bloomer, at the meeting of the Golden Rule Class of the Bloomingburg United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Bloomer also presented "How you can start getting the most out of life", by Norman Vincent Peale and a prayer, by Peter Marshall. The group sang, "Take Time to be Holy", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Lewis Redd.

The class voted to serve food for the Andrews & Baughn sale on March 10, and Eli Craig announced meetings on estate planning with Judge Metcalf, to be held on Wednesday nights through February at Veterans Memorial Auditorium, Columbus.

Refreshments were served from Valentine-decorated tables. Serving on the committee were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Rapp, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Bloomer and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Redd

GOOD REASON

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — Dorothy Thompson, a former teacher who has become the first woman on the Regular Spartanburg police force, was asked why she quit teaching for police work.

"It's safer," she said.

To help a garment keep its shape while being made, place a row of machine stitching one-half inch from the cut edge of material before sewing up. This is also a great help in preventing raveling on certain materials.

'Fair Time' is theme for county Flower Show

The Fayette Garden Clubs Presidents Council met at the Sulky Restaurant, with Mrs. Donald Meredith, president of the group, conducting the meeting. Mrs. Jean Craig explained "Operation Trees," and Mrs. Robert Meriweather read minutes of the last meeting, which was held in November. She also gave the treasurer's report.

Plans for the Fair Flower Show were made. The theme is "Fair Time." The entries are:

1. Family Home - flowers in homemade containers, to show rythm.
2. Our Youth - all green foliage.
3. The Little Children - miniature, under 6 inches.
4. Senior Citizens - an arrangement using weathered or driftwood with one or more flowers.
5. The Fair Queen - arrangement using three white candles with flowers.
6. Life in the Country - your own interpretation, accompanied by a card. Painted material may be used.
7. Fayette Merchants - mass arrangement.
8. Food Producers - using home-grown fruit and or vegetables. Mat may be used.
9. Peace - a white container with white flowers and foliage.

Those present were Mrs. Alvin Armintrout, Mrs. Lewis Thomson, Mrs. Lee Cleland and Mrs. Dwight Duff, of Town and Country Club; Mrs. Robert Meriweather, Fayette Club; Mrs. Fred Rivenburgh, Mrs. Lyle Hanawalt, Posy; Mrs. Meredith and Mrs. Jean Craig, of Washington Club; Mrs. Willard Bonham and Mrs. Lucille Braden, Twin Oaks.

The next meeting will be March 5.

'American History Month' observed by local DAR

Mrs. Robert Cannon was hostess Monday afternoon for the meeting of the Washington C. H. chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Forty Daughters and one guest, Mrs. Florence Saxton Inskeep, were present when the Regent, Mrs. R. Dean Powell, opened the chapter in ritualistic form. Mrs. Marvin Roszmann gave devotions.

Mrs. Jane Porter Gartner and Mrs. Harold Slagle read the state regent's and president general's messages. The national defense message was presented by Mrs. John Sagar.

The local chapter will act as chairman for the president general, state regent and conference guests on Monday, March 19. . Mrs. Willard Bitzer, chairman for American History Month, (February) told of visiting nine local schools to interest pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades in the essay contest, "A Patriot of 1773." There were 68 pupils who participated. Winners will be honored at the George Washington Tea, Feb. 22, in the youth room of Grace United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Eugene Rahfuse, state chairman, of Hamilton, guest speaker for the afternoon, said that the "best thing one derives from history is the enthusiasm that it raises."

The Washington C. H. chapter will have two pages at the state conference and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson will be hostess for the Martha Washington committee.

Hostesses, serving a dessert course, were Mrs. Cannon, Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, Mrs. Robert Lisk, Mrs. Virtus Kruse, Mrs. J. Earl McLean, Mrs. Owen Gartner, Mrs. Roy Porter, Miss Elizabeth Trent, Mrs. Ernest Stanforth, Mrs. Jean Dunlap, Mrs. Virginia Dews, Mrs. E. P. Lindsay and Miss Vera V. Veail.

Mrs. Bonecutter hostess to Twin Oaks Club

Mrs. Harold Bonecutter welcomed the Twin Oaks Garden Club to her home for a meeting, when Mrs. Thomas Braden, president, opened the session with a poem, "Good Old Ohio."

Reports were presented by Mrs. Dana Kellenberger and Mrs. Willard Bonham. Mrs. Eugene Thompson announced the club will serve dinner to a company and their guests on Feb. 20. The ways and means committee will be in charge.

Mrs. Braden gave a report on the council meeting and led a discussion of the Fayette County Fair Flower show, for which the theme this year is "Fair Time."

Mrs. Howard Barney will be hostess for the next club meeting.

Mrs. Wilbur Hoppes presented the program. She read an article about John Turnipseed and suggested getting the menfolk in on gardening. She also presented an article, "Gardening for Better Living," saying, that February is the month for important decisions concerning next summer's garden. Sowing seeds indoors in a sunny window or under lights, is a way to get a jump on spring. If 1973 seed catalogues have not arrived, one may write for them, she said.

Horticulture hints were given by Mrs. Barney, who suggested bringing branches of spring flowering trees and shrubs indoors and standing them in water in a moderately warm room. They will soon flower, she said.

Mrs. Virgil Garringer assisted in serving refreshments to nine members.

Gamma CCL schedules AFS student

Gamma Child Conservation League has scheduled Miss Claudia Becht, AFS student at Miami Trace High School, to speak at the April meeting to be held in the home of Mrs. Harry Townsend.

The group met with Mrs. Opal Ault for the February meeting, Mrs. Maynard Denen conducting the meeting. A moment of silence was observed for the recent signing of the Peace Treaty and the return of prisoners of war.

Various reports were heard and approved. It was announced that Mrs. Linda Garringer, nee Linda Leeth, of Jamestown, who was recently injured in an auto accident, had been transferred from Memorial Hospital to Mount Carmel Hospital, Columbus, on Wednesday.

Also it was announced that the style show planned for all CCL leagues and their friends, will be held at Miami Trace High School on March 30 instead of the 29th. Each member of the leagues is to bring a dessert for the dessert smorgasbord. The style show will begin at 8 p.m.

A discussion was held on absenteeism of members at meetings.

Mrs. Denen assisted Mrs. Ault in serving refreshments to eight members.

Ever bake an applesauce pie?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Around Boston, Massachusetts, applesauce pies were popular in the past century. These were made chiefly with applesauce, sugar and eggs. But as the years have passed, applesauce pies have changed. One good cook adds golden raisins and a streusel topping. When we tested this version our tasters applauded, and the recipe follows.

APPLESAUCE RAISIN CRUMB PIE

1 can (16 ounces) or 1 jar (15 ounces) applesauce
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
¼ cup butter
Dash of salt
1 cup golden raisins
4 eggs
Unbaked 10-inch pie shell
¾ cup buttermilk biscuit mix
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Into a 2-quart saucepan turn the applesauce and brown sugar. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 20 minutes; remove from heat. Add ¼ cup butter and the salt; stir until butter is melted. Stir in raisins. Cool to room temperature.

In a small mixing bowl beat eggs well; add to cooled applesauce mixture and blend well. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven, on rack below center, for 20 minutes.

Meanwhile in a medium mixing bowl stir together the biscuit mix and granulated sugar; with a pastry blend cut in the 2 tablespoons butter until the size of small peas. After pie has baked for 20 minutes, sprinkle the biscuit-mix mixture evenly over top and continue baking in the 375-degree oven until crust and top are golden brown — 25 more minutes. Place pan on wire rack to cool before cutting.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, FEB. 9

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

If you get an early start and refuse to let interruptions sidetrack you, you should be able to make a dandy showing now. Many things are working for you.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Good planetary influences should encourage you to step out and try for bigger gains. Accelerate your pace, but do not reduce effectiveness by scattering energies.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

A fine period in which to capitalize on your ingenuity, inventiveness and good ideas; also for starting new ventures.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Some unusual situations indicated. In all dealings, be direct. Avoid devious tactics or approach, and give others the benefit of any doubt.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Clear thinking, followed by effective action, can help you make new records now. Keep your mind on your most ambitious goals, and head straight toward them.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

BIG opportunities may not come your way now, but there are some dandy "little" ones by which you can profit. Keep worthwhile objectives in mind and don't go off on tangents.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Stellar influences put you in a highly propitious spot for gains if you will exercise your skills and know-how. Keep aims high and everything should go well.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Willingness to listen even though you "know the answers" will pay in unsuspected but delightful ways. You can attain new friends, prestige.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

If on schedule, performing at your best, this should be a happy day because fine rewards are indicated for the steady, efficient DO-ER.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Favorable influences. You can now pursue the difficult tasks with as much assurance as the easier ones. Especially favored: Written matters, intellectual pursuits.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Watch for vacillating, uncertain tendencies in yourself and others. Lessen tensions with a quick smile and a joke (easy for the Aquarian). But don't engage in frivolous thinking.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Common sense and a philosophical outlook will help you through this somewhat mixed day. Don't disrupt schedule to indulge in frivolity. Modernize methods, ideas.

YOU BORN TODAY, a native of the second decan of Aquarius, are extremely versatile, ambitious and enterprising; can reach the loftiest of positions even from most humble beginnings. Enthusiastic about life and everything it has to offer, obstacles never discourage you. They merely act as challenges for you to meet and conquer. You loathe injustice of any kind and will defend the weak to your last breath. Highly creative, you could carve an enviable career in the fields of writing, painting, music or interior decorating, but you also make excellent scientists (especially in the world of medicine), statesmen and entertainers.

Sheriff wears jail clothes to show need for funds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sheriff Richard Hongisto is wearing the tattered clothing of a jailbird in new strategy to squeeze more money out of City Hall and Mayor Joseph Alioto for jail operations.

"I just want to get the job done," the 37-year-old sheriff told newsmen Tuesday. He was garbed in ripped pants, socks with holes, truncated shoes and threadbare shirt — standard jailhouse issue. The shoes have the toes cut off so they'll fit feet of any size.

Hongisto, who said he hasn't given up a $500,000 suit to force city and county officials to improve "degrading, negative" jail facilities, said:

"From now on, I'll be wearing this around my City Hall office and at outside speaking engagements to hammer home a message. We need more funds to bring our jails up to minimum state standards, not only for better clothing issue, but better medical and dental care, improved sanitation, better food."

Hongisto's new outfit is one which had been worn by an inmate at the main jail near San Bruno, just south of San Francisco.

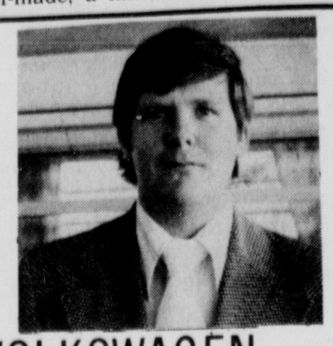

The new "message wardrobe" is the latest chapter in Hongisto's efforts to ease the plight of more than 1,100 county jail inmates. And the sheriff doesn't let his master's degree in criminology get in the way of street language if he figures a point has to be made.

Hongisto exploded when he learned the mayor was willing to give him only $25,000 instead of the $800,000 he wanted.

That was before Hongisto's $500,000 suit against the mayor and others was tossed out of court. The sheriff says he'll appeal.

Despite the epithet, Hongisto says he admires Alioto as "a brilliant man, self-made, a millionaire.

Plan food preparation for POWs

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Readjusting former American prisoners of war to the American diet is going to be "pretty tricky," a Navy dietitian says.

"They're going to be amazed at what we're eating now. We have a lot more convenience foods, frozen and packaged, and there are a lot more fad foods," Lt. Georgiana Banellis of Memphis Air Station said Tuesday.

The 25-year-old Logan, Utah, native will be in charge of reconstructing diets for a group of POWs from mid-South states who are scheduled to stay at the base hospital.

"They've missed all this stuff, this fad food. They're going to have it rough adjusting to the United States again. They may not remember what the food tastes like," she said.

"We will give them 1,200 calories intake and six light meals a day to begin. The main criteria is that you don't push them into it.

"We might start with one or two of the foods they particularly like and build from there. They will get meats, liver, dark green vegetables, oranges, tomatoes, and other foods with plenty of iron and vitamin C....

"Food might be a shock to the body so we'll begin without spicy, high-fat foods that are harder to digest."

R-H readers invited to join London tour

London in the early spring may not be the Riviera, Costa Del Sol or Hawaii, but it can be a fun place to visit.

London rapidly is becoming the stage center for live entertainment. The weather may not always be sunny and warm, but it is just as passable as that in New York for that time of year.

Because London is becoming the theater "mecca", the first scheduled trip of Newspaper Tours Ltd., with which The Record-Herald is associated, is a Theater Party to London. This economic package tour has two departures set, the first being Saturday, March 17, and the second, Saturday, March 31.

The tours will depart Port Columbus by mid-morning on Saturday and return late evening Sunday the following week.

The package, priced at $399 a person plus 10 per cent for taxes, tips and services covers roundtrip air transportation, Columbus to London, hotel facilities (two persons sharing room with private bath), transfers, sightseeing as indicated in itinerary, four theater productions of your selection, including a concert or ballet, and continental breakfast and meals enroute by air.

A deposit of $50 per person will hold a spot for you on this theatrical visit to "merrie olde England."

For further instructions and a brochure, call The Record-Herald and ask for "Linda". Reservations will be handled by this paper. Final instructions will be received by mail.

All events, transportation and hotel facilities, as well as the theater attractions, are confirmed.

Newspaper Tours Ltd. trips are organized and operated through the Richard Lewis Travel Service, Columbus (an experienced travel service in Columbus) to insure the best arrangements for our readers.

Trained watchdog bites policeman

CEDAR LAKE, Ind. (AP) — A 100-pound trained watchdog ignored two burglars who looted his master's place of business, then bit a policeman called to investigate.

Marvin Mann, owner of a service station along U.S. 41 here, said the dog was running around outside when he arrived early Tuesday morning and ignored the burglars as they fled from the rear of the building.

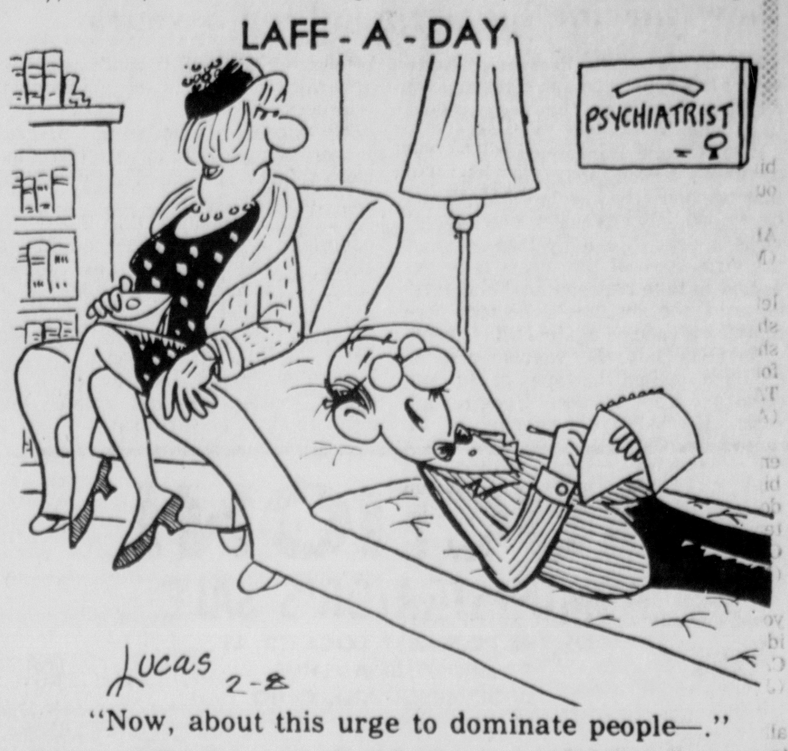

Patrolman Edgar Prater was treated for bites and scratches after the dog jumped him when he came to investigate.

Several tools, a stereo player and tapes were taken from the station.

Indonesians assured

JAKARTA (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has assured Indonesian leaders that "the United States will continue its presence and vital interest in the region and honor its commitments."

New vaccine looks ahead for 5 years

PARIS (AP)—The Pasteur Institute says it has developed a vaccine against all types of influenza that are expected to develop in the next five years.

Prof. Claude Hannoun, head of the institute's ecology unit, said Tuesday that previous flu vaccines have been developed only after each new type of virus appeared. But by transforming the virus into all the forms it is expected to take between now and 1978, he said the institute's doctors formulated a vaccine against all of them.

Hannoun said the vaccine also is effective against the types of flu that developed from the 1969 "Hong Kong" virus. He said the vaccine is in production and will become available generally as soon as the government approves.

The vaccine resulted from a process in which forms of flu virus yet to come were artificially created in the laboratory, Hannoun said.

Hannoun explained that flu virus undergoes a basic change about once every 10 years. Within this 10-year span, it undergoes variations, that regularly defeat existing flu vaccines.

The Pasteur Institute took the basic 1969 Hong Kong strain of virus, fought it with antibodies that forced it to undergo variations, and isolated the ultimate stage of variation.

Blood vessel 'spot welding' fights diabetic eye damage

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A nationwide study of 1,800 persons is being set up to find out whether "spot welding of blood vessels in the eye helps to prevent the eye damage of advanced diabetes.

Sixteen clinical centers across the country are to enroll 100 to 150 diabetics each for the five-year study. All will be volunteers in a study of the most rapidly growing cause of blindness.

A key feature of the planned study is that only one eye of each patient will be treated. And the choice of which eye is to be treated will be done at random to assure objectivity, scientists said.

If in the course of the study it becomes apparent that very good or very bad results are being produced, the treatment will be changed, according to the researchers designing the study.

The study was described Tuesday to a science writers seminar on ophthalmology by Dr. Genell Knatterud, a biostatistician at the University of Maryland, the coordinating center for the study.

The seminar was sponsored by Research to Prevent Blindness Inc., a national research foundation based in New York.

The eye disease to be studied is called diabetic retinopathy, a major complication of diabetes. In 1930, it caused less than one per cent of all new cases of blindness in the United States. Now it is considered responsible for more than 15 per cent of all new cases of blindness.

Two methods of treatment will be tested, both of them including the use of light beams to coagulate the ballooning or bursting blood vessels in the retina that mark the disease.

Hatchery blast brings 'snow'

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — "Down was falling like snow," said a policeman after bombers blew up a hatchery at Dungannon, destroying more than 1.5 million eggs and young chicks.

The hatchery staff was warned before the explosion Tuesday and had time to get out.

Big French vote

PARIS (AP) — The opposition Communist-Socialist alliance polled 47 per cent of the votes and the government coalition 36 per cent in the latest survey on French voting intentions in national elections next month.

The survey, prepared for today's edition of Le Figaro, puts the Gaullist majority two points below its showing in the last poll published by the newspaper. The leftist coalition rose by one point.

The shifts were less than those recorded in a poll commissioned by the newspaper L'Aurore last week. It showed the left gaining four points to 47 per cent and the government losing six to 37 per cent.

'MASKED MARVEL' CLAIMS NEW RECORD — A masked motorcyclist completes a dash through an 80-foot long tunnel of fire at Newport on the Isle of Wight. Officials at the English marina said the unidentified rider set anew record, breaking the old mark of 65-feet 7 and a half inches claimed by Dick Sheppard last August. (AP Wirephoto)

Pamphlet illustrates oil problem

NEW YORK (AP) — While alarm is expressed over the threat of a serious oil shortage, the National Oil Fuel Institute has produced for distributors a little folded advertisement designed for "stuffing" in mail to customers.

It is a classic of mistiming. Simulated on the first page are headlines such as "Electric Customers Suffer 8-Hour Blackout" and "Gas Company Cuts Service" followed by the question, "Aren't you glad you have oil heat?"

More accurately stated, it would read, "Aren't you glad when you have oil heat?" The possibility of shortages seemingly never occurred to the institute, which continues:

"As an oil heat customer, you don't have to worry about being left out in the cold next winter — or for many, many winters.... That's because there's plenty of heating oil around for everyone, and more is being discovered all the time."

Could the industry really have been so shortsighted? Could it have failed to foresee a shortage that was only weeks away?

The answer is complex. Some did see it but, like retirement to a 45-year-old worker, it didn't seem real. Some knew that energy demands were rising, but they didn't foresee the political, economic and environmental obstacles to supply.

A large part of the industry foresaw many of the problems but felt stymied in doing much about them because of the absence of a national energy policy in which government and private efforts were coordinated.

If today's shortages had been foreseen 10 to 15 years ago and effective action taken, we would be nearly self-sufficient today, John McLean, head of Continental Oil Co., said at a media reception to announce 1972 earnings of $170 million.

Instead, the country is highly dependent upon foreign imports while domestic and continental energy supplies remain untapped or underutilized. Only 30 per cent of oil is taken from wells today, for example, before they become uneconomic.

Lake Michigan is 22,400 square miles in area.

Theft, vandalism reports investigated by officers

Several minor thefts and vandalism incidents were investigated by city police and sheriff's departments Wednesday.

Carl Ritchie, owner of Dollar Motel, U.S. 35 and I-71, reported the theft or a portable television set from one of the motel rooms. The theft occurred sometime Wednesday. Loss was set at $125.

A fire extinquisher valued at $30 was removed from a Miami Trace High School bus parked in Bloomingburg overnight Sunday. Cecil Harris, bus driver, said the bus was parked in a lot on Miron Street at the time.

Joyce Massie and Valerie Reno, both of 511 E. Temple St., reported that antennas on their cars had been broken off overnight. The fan belt also was missing from the Massie car. Loss was set at $25.

James Bunch, of 640½ S. Fayette St., reported that vandals had cut his electric lead-in wire, telephone wire and cable television wire Tuesday night. A window in his garage was also knocked out. Damage was estimated at $35.

Wayne firemen name officers

GOOD HOPE — Members of the Wayne Township Fire Department elected officers and were schooled on the use of their air packs at the group's regular monthly meeting at the fire station.

Lloyd Bowers was named president, to succeed Earl Rea; Melvin Pierce is vice president, succeeding Pearl Breakfield; and Gale McConkey succeeds Gerald Roberts, as secretary - treasurer. The new officers will take over at the March meeting.

Paul Breakfield headed the clean-up crew, at work during the session.

Planners reject subdivision plat

A preliminary plat for the Lewisburg Village subdivision, a proposed 16-lot development at Lewis and Campbell streets, was rejected by the City Planning Commission at a meeting Wednesday night.

But Jackie Rayburn, Rt. 1, who had filed the application for approval, was given leave to prepare a new plat for consideration at the commission's next meeting March 7.

Rejection of the first plat followed a long discussion with Rayburn's representatives. The commission's basic objection centered on the general design and street layout.

Members of the Planning Commission are the Rev. Elmer Burrall, chairman; Councilman Donald E. Wood, Edward Fisher, Dr. Warren Craig and City Manager Dan Wolford.

There are more women than men in Ontario and Quebec.

To open the regular meeting of the PTO, held in Madison Mills schools, Max Schlichter and daughter, Dawn, sang several songs, accompanied by Mrs. Rick Stinson.

Dead man said behind 3 murders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus police have accused Joe Bogen, a 39-year-old former Columbus man who was shot and killed last July in a Cleveland after-hours bar of a slaying here in 1969 and a double murder here in 1970.

Police said Wednesday that Bogen, who lived in Cleveland at the time of his death, was the lone killer of Edgar W. Edgar, 52, on June 24, 1969, and Frank Yassenoff, 63, and his fiancee, Mrs. Ella Rich, 51, on March 23, 1970. All of the victims were shot.

Police at one time discounted robbery as a motive in the Yassenoff-Rich murders, but gave that as the motive Wednesday.

Law officers said they believed burglary was the motive in the death of Edgar.

Bogen was killed by James Smith, 24, of Cleveland, his partner in the afterhours bar.

Ballistics experts have identified the slugs taken from Bogen's body as coming from the same gun that killed Yassenoff and his fiancee.

Detectives said Smith got the gun from Bogen for protection while working at the bar. The gun has never been found.

According to police, a .38-caliber revolver, used in the Edgar killing, was traced back to Bogen about two months after the shooting.

Detectives said that while Bogen was being held here on narcotics charges last June he was questioned about the Edgar case. They said he told them he could find the Yassenoff murder weapon if he could get to Cleveland.

Housing subsidy plan continues

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $75 million experimental housing allowance subsidy program will not be affected by the federal moratorium on housing projects, according to Columbus developer and businessman, George Deffet.

Deffet said he received word from HUD on the project's fate Wednesday. He said he was told of the decision not to scrap the program in a letter from Theodore Britton, Jr., acting assistant secretary for research and technology.

Certain low income families would be given direct rent subsidies under the plan. They would find their own housing with the money.

Workers to return

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A spokesman for the Columbus Westinghouse Corp. plant says the 1,500 furloughed workers at the facility may be back to their jobs Feb. 14.

Agrico to build Plant at Tulsa

TULSA, Okla — Agrico Chemical Co., a subsidiary of the Williams Companies, has announced plans to construct a $46,000,000 agricultural chemical complex on the Verdigris River just east of Tulsa's Port of Catoosa.

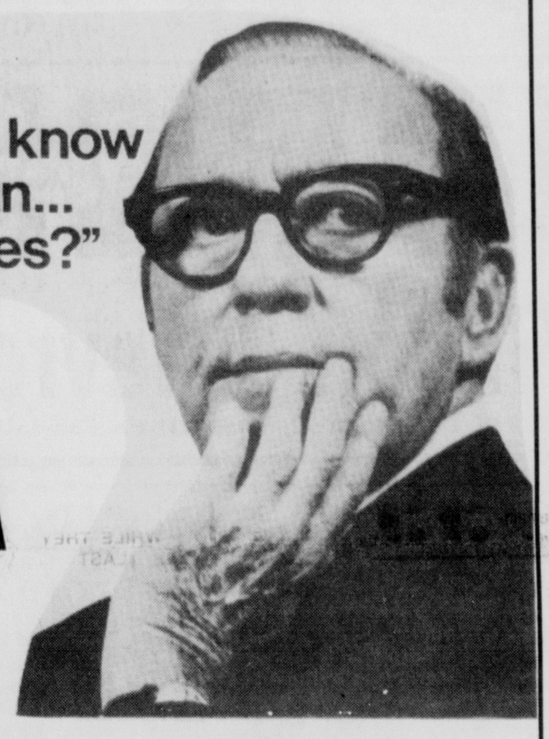

The facility has a design capacity of 425,000 tons of ammonia and 600,000 tons of urea ammonium nitrate solution a year. The supply of ammonia for growing agricultural feedstocks in the United States is short and so the government has given production of this product a high priority for the use of natural gas.

"Most employes of the plant will be hired locally and annual payroll should exceed $1,000,000," Kenneth F. Lundberg, chairman of board of Agrico, said.

The complex would be located on 276 acres of land that borders the east side of the Verdigris River for three quarters of a mile.

Today Agrico has annual sales of approximately $225,000,000 through thousands of dealers in the U. S. and abroad. The company has 17 plants in the U. S. and Canada and is one of the world's largest suppliers of phosphate rock from its mines in Florida.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Rich Little gained a measure of fame by doing uncannily accurate vocal impressions of such folk as John Wayne, President Nixon and Ed Sullivan. It's caused him a few problems.

One involves little people, usually between the ages of nine and 10. They stomp up to him and insist on doing their impressions. Another problem occurs when he speaks in his own voice.

He keeps getting asked, "Who are you doing now?"

Little, in town to do a voice or two on ABC's Jack Paar show, talked about the performing life and related matters during a hurried dinner at a big hotel here.

"I'm like the piano player," he mildly groused. "Wherever I go, people are always wanting me to get up and perform, even on the street.

"It's just lately that when I'm on the road that a lot of kids who are studying impressions come into the dressing room and go through their routines.

"There was a 10-year-old in Oklahoma I remember well. He came in and opened with Ronald Colman. Then he went into his Ed Sullivan—eight minutes of introductions—and then went into Walter Pidgeon, another one of his favorites."

How does Little deal with these verbal urchins?

"I never criticize them," he said. "They're too young for that. I picture myself at their age and I used to do what they do, too."

Little, a regular on ABC's "Julie Andrews Show" and a fair actor and singer when he isn't doing voices, was born in Ottawa, Canada. He got into show business because of his classmates in school — they cheered his impressions of their teachers.

His first engagement was at a club in a Quebec mining town. The job paid $15 and the patrons paid no attention.

"Not only did they not react, but they didn't speak English," he said. "It's a wonder I didn't get into aluminum siding right then."

As the years went on, his fame grew and so did the voices in his repertoire — he now can do about 125. Singer Mel Torme got him his first big break in U.S. television in 1964.

But his real start in America began with his first engagement at a night club in St. Petersburg, Fla. He warmed up the audience for the headliner, Joan Fairfax and Her All-Girl Orchestra.

He admits to being a basket case when he first went on. He also recalled doing Ronald Coleman and Walter Pidgeon imitations, but other details were hazy? What happened afterwards?

"Nothing too much," Little said. "I went into my room and cried and worked on my Walter Pidgeon."

Law enforcement funds received

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has given Ohio $11 million as part of the state's 1973 Omnibus Crime Control Allocation, David Sweet, Ohio Economic and Community Development director, said Wednesday.

The money will be used for the continuation of criminal justice programs and for correctional facilities and programs, according to Sweet.

Sweet said that chances appear good that the state will get nearly $28 million that his department requested from the federal enforcement administration.

A bit of everything

The 1972-73 statistical study of high school basketball schedules submitted to the Ohio High School Athletic Association discloses an increase in the number of mid-week games being played by Ohio schools.

According to the OHSAA's monthly newsletter, schools that have scheduled mid-week games have moved the starting time of the games to an earlier hour and have scheduled games with schools in the immediate area as Washington C.H. did with East Clinton and Madison Plains.

During the 1958-59 season, the first year that statistics were compiled, indicates that 26.7 per cent of all basketball games were mid-week compared to 7.21 per cent for the 972-73 season. In the 1968-69 season only 1.31 per cent of the total number of games played of the mid-week type.

Another interesting bit of information from the OHSAA newsletter says beginning in the 1973-74 basketball season, padding will be required along the bottom and sides of rectangular backboards.

Skirmish at Circleville Friday holds key to Lions' cage hopes

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

A bubbling challenge looms for Washington C. H.'s title-hungry Blue Lions Friday night.

At least a chunk of the 45th South Central Ohio League championship will be hanging in balance for head coach Gary Shaffer's fifth Washington C. H. team when it challenges perennial toughie Circleville.

The game, like Miami Trace's a week ago, will be staged in Circleville's junior high gym located on Mill St.

THE RASCALLY Blue Lions, hoping to hoist their first undisputed SCOL pennant in almost two decades, are alone atop the SCOL pack with a 6-2 chart and need a win dearly to grab at least a share of this year's title.

Whatever happens in the SCOL title race between now and Feb. 16 when the new champion is finally crowned, the Blue Lion cagers will be able to look back to Friday's shootout with Circleville as probably the most crucial date of the whole year.

A win would send Washington C. H. into a title-bearing showdown with Miami Trace next Friday night, while a loss would throw the tight SCOL standings into a three-way knot between the winner of the Miami Trace - Wilmington skirmish and Circleville.

The Lions, who have emerged with victories in four of their last five games, will tote a 9-6 all-games worksheet into Friday's risky road jaunt.

CIRCLEVILLE has dropped its last two SCOL games, but the most important was the 57-56 setback to Miami Trace a week ago which helped Washington C. H. capture sole ownership of the top SCOL perch.

Head coach John Lawhorn's gang, which shows a 5-3 SCOL log and is involved in the snarled three-way logjam for second place with Miami Trace and Wilmington, snapped a three-game nosedive with a 75-55 non-league win over a weak Hamilton Township team last Saturday night.

The Tigers, shocked by Washington C. H. 60-54 in the first meeting between the two teams at the WSHS gym, are hoping to be sitting in an uncomfortable three-way first place tie when the smoke clears from the Circleville junior high floor.

Dave Truex, the tireless All-SCOL cornerman, has been of the primary weapons in sparking Circleville to a 10-4 all-games record this season.

The smooth-shooting 6-foot-0 charmer ranks third on the SCOL scoring list with a nifty 17.9 point per game average and has bagged 17.5 points a contest against SCOL opponents.

Dan Graham, a slick inside ace, will also be a problem when Shaffer makes his defensive arrangements Friday. The rangy frontliner has been averaging 15.5 points per outing.

Greg Hoskins, a smooth 6-foot-1 senior, has also contributed a bulk of Circleville's scoring punch. The hard-working forward has a 13.9 scoring mark.

LAWHORN HAS inserted John Ankrom, a 6-foot-0 junior, into the backcourt in Circleville's last two starts in hopes of providing more scoring, but scrappy 5-foot-10 junior Robin Martin contributed 23 points in the nerve-racking loss to Miami Trace.

Others at the veteran Tiger mentor's disposal include Glenn Gillespie, a 5-foot-10 senior, and junior Doug Radabaugh.

Undisputed possession of first place in the SCOL reserve standings will be up for grabs when Washington C. H. and Circleville match 6-2 records in the preliminary games at 6:30 p.m.

Lion Cubs enter Jr. High tourney

SABINA — Washington C.H.'s eighth grade basketball team will be participating in the annual Sabina Junior High invitational basketball tournament which opens Saturday at the Sabina Junior High gym.

Four teams are entered in the tournament which opens Saturday and concludes Feb. 17, according to Roger Murphy, the tournament director.

Kings Mills will meet Wilmington in the opener at 1 p.m. Saturday and Washington C.H. (2-6) and Sabina (11-1) will clash at 2 p.m. The championship game will be staged at 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 17 and a consolation game will be played at 1 p.m.

Murphy said admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

OSU, Minnesota players hope for peaceful game

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "We just can't worry about the feelings behind it. We just have to go out and play a normal game," said Mark Wagar.

The lean 6-foot-8 senior forward hasn't even scored in his brief Ohio State basketball appearances this season, but he was one of the principals in the game-ending brawl at Minnesota last year.

The Gophers visit here Saturday in a nationally-televised contest (1:30 p.m. EST) in the Big Ten Rivals' lone meeting this season.

Wagar again will ride the bench. However, he has some thoughts about the famous rematch after being hospitalized after the contest in Minneapolis Jan. 25, 1972.

"There's got to be a lot of feeling behind this game," admitted Wagar. "But I don't anticipate any trouble.

"It should be a great game," he added. "We're coming on and they (Minnesota) have proven themselves."

Luke Witte, 7-foot Ohio State center also detained in a Minneapolis hospital overnight with injuries from the melee, is concerned about a sellout St. John Arena crowd of 13,489.

"I just hope the crowd treats them like any other opponent and gets behind us," said the big senior, who regained his starting job in the 70-69 upset of league-leading Indiana Monday night.

Ron Behagen, suspended with Gopher teammate Corky Taylor for his part in the brawl said he isn't going to worry about playing before a hostile road crowd.

"It's just another game," said the 6-foot-10 Gophers' senior forward. "If something weird is going to happen, it's going to happen anyway."

Irish zone drops curtain on Michigan State, 85-72

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan State's basketball team spent a week in South Bend Wednesday night.

At least it must have seemed that way after a long, long night with Notre Dame.

"We played a horrible game," said Michigan State Coach Gus Ganakas after dropping an 85-72 decision to the Fighting Irish. "As the second half wore on, we became more disorganized and they got stronger through organization."

The "organization" to which Ganakas referred was Notre Dame's tough zone defense. It no doubt looked like the Twilight Zone to Michigan State's lost Spartans.

"Our zone at the end of the game won it for us," said Notre Dame Coach Dick "Digger" Phelps. "When we started to stall with about three minutes to play, we were up by six points. And after that, we just pulled away."

In other games Wednesday night, No. 3 Long Beach State walloped San Diego State 97-76; 12th-ranked Providence defeated St. Joseph's, Pa., 81-75 and No. 17 San Francisco beat Santa Clara 78-69.

Michigan State had a 35-34 lead over Notre Dame at the half, but buckled under a second-half assault led by the Fighting Irish's Gary Novak. He scored 18 of his 24 points in the last stanza.

Nate Stephens scored 24 points for a season high and Ed Ratleff fired in 23 to pace Long Beach's victory; Providence won behind Ernie DiGregorio's 26 points and San Francisco walloped Santa Clara as Phil Smith and Mike Quick each scored 19 points.

Elsewhere, Fairfield beat St. Bonaventure 72-60; Penn State turned back Temple 64-49; Sam Houston State, the nation's No. 1-ranked college division team, topped fourth-ranked Stephen F. Austin 81-67; West Virginia nipped Rutgers 71-68; Marshall defeated Miami 68-59; LaSalle blasted Canisius 97-85. Kent State trimmed Pitt 74-68 and Duke smashed Wake Foresst 84-71.

Huntsman steps down as ISU grid coach

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)— Jerry Huntsman is stepping down as head football coach at Indiana State University to become assistant athletic director.

Huntsman has been coach here seven years and will continue his duties as coach until a replacement is found. Indiana State had a 7-3 record this past season, winning its last five games. Huntsman's best season was in 1968 when the Sycamores were 9-1 and he was nominated for small schools coach of the year.

MAC Council of Presidents ponders league expansion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The close-knit Mid-American Conference Council of Presidents meets here Friday with league expansion the No. 1 item on its agenda.

Officials are tight-lipped about additional growth pains for the league that expanded to eight teams with the acceptance of Eastern Michigan and Central Michigan in 1971.

The presidents meet in closed executive session with only MAC commissioner Fred Jacoby joining them. They seldom announce results of the meeting immediately either.

Ball State and Northern Illinois are mentioned as prime contenders for the ninth and tenth spots in the conference if the presidents elect to expand the league again.

"In essence, I would favor expansion," Jacoby said. "For the matter of coverage, it would be an advantage to have more states and would help our potential television exposure."

The commissioner, however, made it clear he does not speak for the independent-thinking presidents, headed by Chairman Phillip R. Shriver, the Miami of Ohio president.

Jacoby did acknowledge there were new applicants for the league, but he would not divulge their names or even say how many.

"If the presidents decide to take in one or two new members," Jacoby continued, "I don't look for an announcement right away."

The commissioner said he believes conference officials would want to visit the newcomers' campuses to go over final details first.

"We're talking about a longterm marriage, not a short courtship," Jacoby said of any new members.

Ball State, located in Indiana, and Northern Illinois would give the conference two additional states.

Nicklaus leads Hope golf clash

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus said the putting greens were rough, joking, "I couldn't hardly get a thing in."

He smiled broadly as he told how close he came to losing his ball in the rough.

Despite such "misfortune," professional golf's premier performer blistered the Indian Wells Country Club course Wednesday with a first-round 64—eight under par—in the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Two strokes behind were veteran Gay Brewer and two tour non-winners, Bob Barbarossa and George Johnson. Another stroke back at 67 were Charles Coody, the 1971 Masters champion, Canadian Ben Kern and two-year pro Dwight Nevil.

The newly planted, frostburned greens at Indian Wells were "probably the roughest" of any in this four-course, 90-hole marathon in which pros team with amateurs for the first 72 holes, Nicklaus said.

Yet the Golden Bear from Columbus, Ohio, required only 28 putts, three of them from 30 feet for a lone bogey. He had an eagle three on the 468-yard 14th hole with a 25-foot putt.

On the 18th tee, his shot went to the right into foot-high rye grass.

He used a seven iron to escape the rough and parred the hole.

USOC chief faces ouster

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Arthur Lentz, $30,000-a-year executive director, is slated to be the main victim of a shakeup this weekend in the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The former University of Wisconsin publicist, administrative head of the USOC since 1966, will be replaced by his present assistant director, Col. Don Miller, a source close to the situation told the Associateed Press today.

Philip O. Krumm, the incoming president, declined to discuss the report other than to say: "There will be some important changes in our organization—yes, they will affect Olympic House. But I can't reveal them for a couple of days."

Krumm is a 66-year-old former sales representative from Kenosha, Wis., who succeeds Clifford Buck of Denver, a retired sporting goods executive, as USOC president in the organization's darkest hour.

Around 150 delegates poured into this fashionable winter resort today to attempt to regrid America's greatest amateur sports body, already deserted by major colleges and under heavy fire from Congress and a militant, college-backed group known as The Committee for a Better Olympics.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The future status of football at the University of Cincinnati was scheduled for debate today at a faculty senate meeting.

A faculty committee has been studying the school's athletic program, which has had dwindling fan support blamed on competition with the Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League.

Wright State assured of even season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the first time ever Wright State has insured itself of at least an even collegiate basketball season.

Wright State, which entered collegiate sports three years ago, defeated Marian of Indianapolis, Ind., 91-68 Wednesday night. The victory gives Wright State an 11-4 season mark, with seven games remaining.

In other Ohio college basketball, Kent State blew a 13-point lead but charged back in the last half to defeat the University of Pittsburgh 74-68.

Marshall's aggressive Thundering Herd roared to an early lead and was never threatened in taking a 68-59 non-conference victory from Miami. The victory upped Marshall's record to 14-6, while Miami dropped to 12-6.

Miami Coach Darrell Hedric said he saw "nothing positive" in his team's effort.

"We weren't ready to play. Then we got too far behind. Marshall's fast break really hurt us. We weren't getting back. That shows a lack of being ready to play.

"We just have to start all over," Hedric said

Ohio Dominican, forced to play its best ball when behind, dropped Mid-Ohio Conference Leader Rio Grande 92-77. The Panthers shot 49 per cent from the field and owned the boards, 53-32. They had been behind 35-15 with nine minutes remaining in the first half, but surged back with a 32-point performance by 6-foot-6 center Ken Richardson.

Akron went on a second half scoring spree in its 97-66 victory over Gannon College of Pennsylvania. The Zips, after leading by only 37-36 at halftime, utilized a zone defense and scored 61 points in the second half.

California State College of Pennsylvania used stall tactics in its game with Steubenville, but saw them backfire as the Barons pulled out a 19-17 victory. The margin came on Jim Garrigan's three-point play in the closing seconds.

Clifford Pratt's 31 points paced Shaw College of Detroit in its overwhelming 107-73 victory over Central State University.

Defiance needed two overtimes to defeat Bluffton 88-86 in the Hoosier-Buckeye Conference.

In other games, Depaul defeated Xavier 89-67, Wooster trounced Marietta, 71-53, Youngstown had an easy time with Baldwin-Wallace, 88-50, Oakland defeated Ashland 114-97, Malone squeaked by Tiffin 89-85, Urbana romped over Walsh 71-56, Thiel barely defeated Hiram 68-67, Cleveland State had just as much trouble beating Wayne State 65-64, and Wilmington defeated Manchester 70-58.

School principal flattened in 1st Golden Gloves test

MIAMI (AP) — Dr. Von N. Beebe, a grade school principal who wanted to see what it was like to be hit, has flunked his first Golden Gloves boxing test.

"I smelled the sweat and felt what it was like, so I have no regrets," said the 32-year-old Beebe through a bleeding lip. "It was an experience, believe me. But I learned something."

Beebe, principal of Leroy D. Fienberg Elementary School of Miami Beach, suffered a pounding and then lost on a second-round technical knockout to Ken Ryals in the 160-pound, subnovice class (five bouts or less) of the Florida Golden Gloves tournament Wednesday night. It was Beebe's first bout.

Ryals caught the long-haired Beebe with a short left seconds after the start of the match, sending the educator sprawling on the seat of his red trunks.

But Beebe, a muscular former rugby player at Dartmouth College, scurried to his feet at the eight count and waded back in against Ryals, a 23-year-old carpenter from Homestead, Fla.

However, as Ryals said after the bout, "He just kept walking into my left."

Beebe, looking fresh despite a cut lip and a blue lump over his left eye, said he was far from disappointed in his performance.

"The other guy was better. He knew how to hit, and I couldn't protect myself. I was getting hit because my hands were too low," the former Bronxville, N.Y., man said.

But Beebe said he felt he succeeded because "I got the taste of defeat and that's something .... You learn something."

Will Beebe continue boxing?

"Certainly, but I wouldn't want to do it all the time," he said. "I feel good and I have no regrets."

Teacher residency suit is returned

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A suit against a residency requirement for new teachers in the Cincinnati school district has been returned to Hamilton County Common Pleas Court by the U.S. District Court.

The Cincinnati Teachers Association originally challenged the regulation in the state court charging it deprives pupils of the best available teachers and discriminates against suburban teacher candidates.

Male telephone operators find new jobs interesting

DETROIT (AP) — Although some men's libbers may label it "tokenism," Michigan Bell is making an effort. Why, .011 per cent of its 5,400 information operators across the state are men.

And the 60 male operators reachable at "411" seem to enjoy their work, and much of their enjoyment comes from the weird reactions they occasionally get when they boom "new number assistance" in their best baritone.

They said some customers gasp, stammer, apologize for dialing the wrong number or just hang up.

"A lady reached me last week and asked when I go out for lunch," said James Taylor, an information operator.

But, the 21-year-old former prep football player is no easier to get a date with than his female coworkers.

"I told her I was having lunch with my parents," he said.

And four-month veteran Paul Davenport, 21, said he once had a female on the line who wanted to get together with him after work and talk about their "hang-ups."

"One nice lady," recounts Davenport, "called in and told me: 'Young lady, you should take care of that sore throat. You sound just awful."

Women generally seem to like being helped by males more than males do, they said.

"You're not as fast as the ladies and you're probably not as cute either," was what one man told Davenport.

And a female operator said there are occasional female chauvinists who don't expect as much from male operators.

"The same lady who would call a female operator dumb and stupid," she said, "will tell fellows: 'Take it easy.' 'Take your time.' "

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is Your Cough Productive?

A cough represents one of the most common symptoms that may or may not be brought to the attention of the doctor.

A cough is frequently associated with any kind of upper respiratory infection. The common cold, the grippe, and the flu often leave in their wake a cough which may vary from simple irritation to one that is disquieting and distressing.

Patients often buy over-the-counter medicines in the hope that any one product, even those haphazardly chosen, will be the answer to their cough. In some instances, a cough is alleviated by these products. In others, the cough may be unaffected.

In order to better understand why a "shotgun" mixture of over - the - counter cough medicines should not routinely be used, the mechanism of a cough should be more clearly understood.

A cough means that there is some irritation along the respiratory airways, including the throat, the pharynx, the larynx, the bronchial tubes and the lungs.

Inflammation of the lining of the breathing apparatus, infection, irritation like tobacco smoke, harsh chemicals, and swelling of the lining by allergy may produce the cough. This entire reflex action is one of the mostly carefully designed protective mechanisms in the body.

WHEN an irritant is present, anywhere along the air passages a signal is sent to a very specific point in the brain, the cough center. From here, further signals are sent to the lungs, the diaphragm and the muscles of the chest, telling them that an explosive cough is necessary to get rid of the offending irritant.

Some coughs are dry, hacking, and "non-productive." This means that no secretions are brought up.

Others are "productive" coughs, which means that mucus and pus, the result of an infection, must be cleared from the respiratory tract.

It is apparent, therefore, that different drugs are used for different types of coughs. It must be apparent, too, that self-medication is not the ideal way to treat a persistent cough.

Even though many of the available products are excellent, the choice must be made more carefully than by the imprinted messages of advertisers.

Some coughs must be suppressed. Others must be stimulated. Sometimes it is necessary to "loosen" a cough. Other times it is necessary to "dry up" a cough.

In some cases, codeine, one of the ingredients in drugs purchased without a prescription, may be the wrong drug for the cough.

It is important to note that codeine, a narctoic, can in many states be purchased without a prescription. Drug addicts quickly learn the availability of such cough medicines and make their daily rounds of purchases to supply their daily needs.

A simple rule of safety is to ask a physician's advice. Often he can, even by telephone description, decide on a cough medicine that would be most effective.

It must be mentioned, of course, that a persistent cough associated with other symptoms may be indicative of a tremendous variety of complex illnesses, the nature of which must be determined by the doctor.

Opening lead - king of hearts.

This deal occurred in a pair championship. As happens so often, the many results differed strikingly fron one another. Games and part scores in spades and diamonds were attempted with varying success, but the play was generally most interesting at those tables where the contract was five diamonds.

There was nothing complicated about the play at most of these tables. West led the king of hearts and continued the suit after East had signaled with the eight or nine.

Declarer ruffed, cashed the A-K of trumps, and finessed the queen of spades. East took the king and returned a club, but South rejected the finesse, since he had a sure way of avoiding the club loser by taking the ace, playing three rounds of spades, and discarding a club from dummy. As a result, declarer made five diamonds at these tables.

But he would not have made the hand had the defense been sharper at trick one. East should have overtaken the king of hearts and returned a club. Had he done that, South would have gone down one.

It is surely not an extraordinary play for East to take the king with the ace in order to lead a club. He can reasonably assume that West's heart bid was based on a five-card suit, which in turn means that declarer has only one.

East should count on the ace of hearts and king of spades as two tricks for the defense, and he should be willing to stake his all on the hope that a club play from him at trick two will produce a third trick.

He should not adopt a passive attitude by allowing West to win the opening lead. Clubs clearly have to be attacked at trick two, and, obviously, the club lead has to come from East.

Final Vietnam USO closes

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — "The USO Is Closed."

The red, white and blue sign on the door spelled the end of an era for the hundreds of thousands of war-weary GIs who wandered inside looking for a hamburger or a friendly face.

After nearly 10 years of trying to provide a bit of America in an unfamiliar land of rice paddies and conical hats, the last USO in South Vietnam posted the notice today.

There was no music, no formal announcement, not even free chili dogs or milkshakes to mark the occasion. Just a few startled civilians and soldiers who came to have a snack, play pool or just hang around for a while.

"I don't believe it," said Sgt. Jack Rains of Miami, Fla. "I got down here after 10 months and it's closed! I guess that's the way things go."

Though all the food and entertainment facilities are closed, USO director Michelle M. Chalfont said the building will be open for information and stateside phone calls until all the American servicemen are out of South Vietnam March 28.

Mrs. Chalfont, whose parents live in Eau Claire, Wis., said the U.S. Command had asked the USO to close "to keep the troops out of the downtown Saigon area," where the two-story club is located.

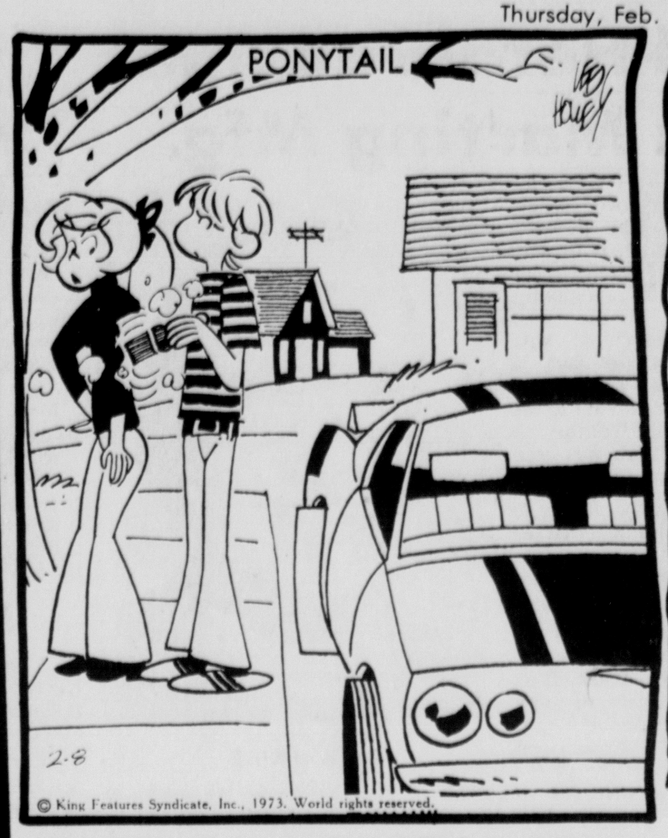

In recent daily bulletins, the Command has warned that assaults and armed robberies in Saigon are occurring at "an alarming rate." The Command is urging American personnel "to stay out of Saigon unless on official business and not to travel in groups of less than three persons."

A handful of servicemen showed up at the club today, some for its last sightseeing tour of the city and cruise down the Saigon River.

Coast Guard group arranges schedule of future events

The U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 8-6, at a regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce office, discussed several upcoming events and conducted a Courteous Motorboat Examination Seminar for members.

Commander Jim Runnels presided at the business session during which plans were made for a Multi-Media First Aid course to be held Feb. 18 and Feb. 25, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., at the Landmark Town and Country auditorium.

The spring conference of the group will be held March 2-3 at Scot's Inn, Springfield. Flotilla 8-6 will bring a centerpiece arrangement, made by one of the Washington garden clubs, for use on the dinner table during the conference.

Flotilla members discussed the safe boating course, now in progress, in which interested boaters may still participate at 7 p.m. Monday evening in the Landmark conference room, Old Chillicothe Rd.

The second annual Safe Boating Queen contest will be held June 24 at Rocky Fork Lake. The regional contest will be Aug. 11-12 for all Ohio Coast Guard division winners.

Eight members and a guest, Dave Ford, attended Wednesday's meeting. Anyone interested may attend future meetings, including the one March 7.

Dog obedience course assured

Enough enthusiasm prevails to make another series of obedience classes a "must" for the Paint Valley Kennel Club. There is still time to sign up other dog owners before the first meeting Monday evening.

Pet owners are asked to come alone — no dogs — from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building at the Fayette County Fairground for the first session. The $20 fee will be payable for the 10 classes, on consecutive Mondays. Owners will go through an orientation session, learning what equipment they should have, and Mrs. Elmer Haymaker, instructor, will answer all questions.

If a sufficient number of Kennel Club members, who already have taken their dogs through the course, are interested, they are eligible to have a refresher course, free of charge, for their pets. This course is to be held from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Mondays.

The public is invited to sit in on all classes. Mrs. Carl Wilt and Mrs. Haymaker will take reservations for classes.

The number of families in Canada increases by about 100,000 each year.

Penn Central shut down by walkout

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — All passenger and freight service on the Penn Central railroad was halted today by a strike of 28,000 conductors and brakemen trying to stop the nation's largest rail line from reducing train crews by a third.

"We have the right to negotiate cutbacks in our contract," said the United Transportation Union, AFL-CIO, as it set up picket lines at Penn Central depots in 16 states, two Canadian provinces and the District of Columbia.

"We're out of business," a railroad spokesman said, acknowledging that the remaining 67,000 operating employes — represented by other unions — would honor the picket lines.

There was no indication whether the Nixon administration, which had delayed the walkout 30 days, would make new efforts now to end it.

Trustees of the Penn Central, now undergoing reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws, said the hardships facing shippers and passenger who use the 1,300 freight and 1,412 passenger trains the line operates daily were "unfortunate and unnecessary."

There were no train movements Thursday on that segment of the Penn Central Railroad's Ohio Division which runs between Trinway and Morrow by way of Washington C.H. The entire system is strikebound except for trains in charge of company officials. An eastbound freight, normally scheduled through Washington C.H. on Thursday, was not running.

They estimated the walkout could result in lost revenues of $20 million if it lasts five days and around $55 million if it continues a month. They explained that the heaviest impact would come in the first week.

There are more than 200,000 daily passengers, most of them commuters in the New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Detroit and Chicago areas. Many are expected to shift to auto transportation.

The key to the dispute, unresolved after more than 18 months of negotiations, is new work rules authorized by U.S. District Court Judge John P. Fullman, who is supervising the reorganization.

U.S. dollar struggling

LONDON (AP) — The attack on the U.S. dollar continued unabated in foreign exchanges today as threats loomed of a trade war between the United States and its major trading partners.

William Eberle, President Nixon's special trade negotiator, underscored the gravity of the crisis when he warned Japanese ministers in Tokyo of a growing demand in the United States for strong curbs on foreign imports pouring into the country.

Indications were growing that West Germany was weakening in its opposition to a two-tier money market for the nine nations of the Common Market.

Death toll may reach 40 in California tragedy

Plane smashes apartment building

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — Rescue crews searched today for more victims believed buried in charred debris after a Navy fighter jet crashed into an apartment house and exploded, touching off an inferno that spread to two adjoining apartment buildings. The local fire chief said as many as 40 persons may have perished.

Four persons were known dead and at least 17 were injured, with an unknown number of missing, including the plane's pilot. Many residents of the apartments were families of Navy men assigned to the nearby base where the plane was headed when it crashed Wednesday night.

Fire Chief Ernest Servente estimated that 42 to 45 tenants were inside when the jet slammed into the four-story, 27-unit stucco apartment building.

The building exploded in flames and witnesses said they saw only a very few people escape.

Servente said that "it probably will take all day" for firemen, Marines, coroner's officials and rescue squad members to sift through the heap of steaming rubble that remained of the apartments.

Authorities said that in all, more than 200 persons were believed living in the buildings affected by the crash and fire in the San Francisco Bay area community.

"There's no question they're going to be pulling bodies out of there. There's no knowing how many are dead," said city councilman Malcolm Longaker.

Intense heat prevented workers from entering the rubble for several hours after the 8:25 p.m. PST crash. Workers wearing asbestos clothing and firemen protected by a stream of water finally were able to start a search of the smoldering, charred debris.

Military investigators prowled the area in a hunt for pieces of the aircraft.

The building struck by the A7 Corsair was a wooden, four-story, open-courtyard type. One of the adjoining apartment buildings was leveled, another damaged.

Witnesses in the residential area said they heard a "whining" noise just before the crash. Then there was an explosion that sent flames and smoke several hundred feet into the air, they said. James Haverberg, who lives across the street from the building hit by the plane, estimated that 75 persons were inside.

"As soon as it happened ... I was there in about 30 or 40 seconds and some guy helped me crawl in there and get this woman out and by that time it was really getting hot," he said.

"I didn't see anybody else get out. I didn't see anyone leave on their own. The entire thing was too hot. There was no warning at all."

"It felt like an earthquake," said Lupie Perez, who lived in the rear of the four-story building.

"We tried to get out, but the doors were jammed. Someone told us to get out in a hurry and kicked out the door, and we managed to get out," she said.

Eyewitnesses said the plane came in low, heading in a westerly direction, clipped one building and then plowed full force into the other.

Local authorities, aided by military police, cordoned off a two-block area around the crash scene.

A Navy spokesman confirmed that an A7 from Lemoore, 150 miles south of here, was missing. He identified the pilot as Lt. Robert Lee Ward, 28, from Cary, N.C., who was attached to a Navy squadron at Lemoore.

The plane and a companion aircraft were reportedly on approach to the Alameda Naval Air Station, about two miles from the crash scene.

Alameda Mayor Terry Lacroix called the crash "the worst fire and holocaust ever in the city." Alameda, an island city adjacent to Oakland and across the bay to the east of San Francisco, has a population of about 66,000.

Vietnam details hammered out

SAIGON (AP) —The four parties to the Vietnam ceasefire agreement held a series of meetings today, making arrangements for the release of the first group of American prisoners held in south Vietnam this weekend, U.S. officials said.

A senior American official in Saigon said Wednesday that the first group would be freed Saturday, but later reports from Defense Department sources in Washington said 27 prisoners of war would be handed over on Sunday.

U.S. officials said representatives of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong were ironing out the final details today. They would not elaborate.

The Pentagon sources said the Viet Cong plans to make the first transfer near An Loc, a provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon.

There was still no firm word on release of the first American prisoners by North Vietnam, but indications were that it would come in Hanoi early next week during the visit of U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The Viet Cong, meanwhile, accused the Saigon government of violating the cease-fire agreement by releasing some 10,600 POWs who Saigon said changed their allegiance after political indoctrination.

A Viet Cong broadcast said the release violated Articles 1 and 5 of the prisoner protocol. Article 1 says all captured Vietnamese military personnel shall be returned to the South Vietnamese party under whose command they served. Article 5 specifies that the prisoners shall be returned at sites agreed upon by the Joint Military Commission, made up of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Canada, a member of the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision, announced that it has formally recognized the government of North Vietnam as a demonstration of its "objectivity and impartiality."

Michel Gauvin, the Canadian chairman of the International Commission, told a news conference that the South Vietnamese government — which Canada also recognizes — has accepted the recognition of North Vietnam as "realistic, dispassionate and very logical."

Canada is the only member of the commission to recognize both Vietnams. Hungary and Poland recognize only North Vietnam, and Indonesia recognizes only South Vietnam.

Delegates to the Joint Military Commission also were working on plans to get Viet Cong representatives to the seven regional headquarters sites in South Vietnam for truce observer teams so both the International Commission and the Joint Commission could begin policing the cease-fire. The International Commission's regional teams and the American and North and South Vietnamese men from the Joint Commission are already at the posts but cannot move into the field without the Viet Cong.

Germ-killer hunt baffles FDA agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food and Drug Administration officials weighing the safety of germ-killing agents in household products say they are having trouble finding out which products contain the chemicals.

A panel of doctors appointed by FDA was charged with determining the safety and effectiveness of such germ-killers as hexachlorophene in toilet soaps.

The panel recommended a virtual ban on hexachlorophene, which was ordered off the over-the-counter market last September except for low-level use as a preservative.

Now the panel says evidence it has seen has failed to prove the safety of five other antibacterial agents in soap, and FDA officials are trying to find out what other products use the five agents.

"Knowing just what's on the market is very difficult," said Dr. Jean Lockhart, FDA medical officer in the division of anti-infective drugs.

"For the most part we don't know what they've substituted. We are not getting good cooperation from the cosmetic manufacturers generally who are using antimicrobial ingredients."

Over the 30 years of its use in non-prescription products, hexachlorophene had turned up in soaps, deodorants, vaginal sprays, shaving cream, mouthwash, skin lotion, toothpaste, furnace air filters and even toilet seats.

Hexachlorophene was found to cause brain lesions in laboratory animals. It was banned after U.S. studies showed infants bathed in it suffered brain damage and after nearly 40 French babies died from a talcum powder containing accidentally high levels of hexachlorophene.

FREEWAY CRASH — The driver of this tractor trailer rig escaped with only minor injuries when it slammed into the rear of another rig on I-71 at the Ohio 41 interchange early Thursday. Sheriff's deputies said three crashes involving semi-rigs were investigated at the slippery intersection. The rig's fuel tank, knocked loose in the collision, lies in the left foreground.

Snowfall brings rash of traffic accidents

A total of 10 accidents involving two injuries and heavy property damage were investigated by police and sheriff's departments within a three hour span Thursday morning as area drivers slid their way to work on snow-covered streets and highways.

A Kentucky truck driver was treated at Memorial Hospital for minor injuries suffered when his rig crashed into the rear of another on I-71 at Ohio 41 at 7:47 a.m., one of three semi rig accidents at that slippery location.

Sheriff's deputies said Floyd Gatewood, 33, of Dry Ridge, Ky., was released following treatment for minor abrasions.

According to the report, Gatewood was following a tractor-trailer rig driven by Clyde Phillips, 54 of Oneida, Tenn., when Phillips slowed for another accident at the interchange. Gatewood applied his brakes but slammed into the rear of Phillips' trailer, and skidded off the right side of the highway.

Gatewood's 1970 model tractor was demolished and damage to the rear of the Phillips trailer was moderate. Sheriff's deputies cited Gatewood for failing to maintain an assured clear distance.

A SOFT DRINK truck went out of control and upset on Washington Avenue at the Paint Creek Bridge just after 9 a.m., slightly injuring the driver.

Gary L. Mathias, 26, of Lancaster, was released after treatment at Memorial Hospital for minor bumps and bruises. He was cited for speed excessive for road conditions.

Police said Mathias was eastbound on Washington Avenue when he lost control of the truck on the icy pavement and skidded off the right side of the road. The truck hit the bridge guardrail and overturned on its left side, breaking most of the load of bottles.

Damage to the truck and its contents was extensive.

Senate votes for narrow probe of Watergate case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rejecting Republican attempts to expand its focus, the Senate has voted to form a special committee to investigate the Watergate bugging incident and other allegations of GOP political espionage against Democrats in 1972.

The vote Wednesday was 77 to 0 after Republican senators failed to gain equal membership on the panel and to broaden its inquiry to include charges of Democratic misdeeds in the 1964 and 1968 campaigns.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who has been designated chairman, said the committee probably won't be ready to begin public hearings for a couple of months.

Members of the panel will be named by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler has pledged administration cooperation with any nonpartisan investigation. The White House was reported to favor an evenly divided committee.

Two former officials of President Nixon's re-election campaign were convicted by a U.S. District Court Jan. 30 of conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping in connection with the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate complex in Washington. Five other persons, including a former Nixon security man, pleaded guilty to similar charges early in the trial.

Democrats initiated the congressional probe, saying the trial failed to investigate the bugging, partly because the Nixon administration's Justice Department was reluctant to fully probe allegations that high-ranking White House officials approved the operation.

Viet bonus approved; faces Ohio Senate test

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hardly anybody opposes a bonus for Vietnam War veterans, but the matter of how it's paid for touched off considerable debate in the House Wednesday.

Majority Democrats, picking up Republican defectors, approved the $300 million proposal, which could face voters in the May primary, 72-20.

But the battle is not over.

The issue now goes to the Senate, which Republicans control 17-16. Democrats control the House 58-41. Seventeen Republicans voted for it and 19 against it on the House floor.

All Democrats voted for it. It was sponsored by Rep. Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, speaker pro tem in the Democratic-controlled House.

Democrats want the measure, which provides up to $500 for a returning veteran, financed by a six-tenths mill property tax increase.

Republican opponents, including Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg—would like to see the money come out of the state's general revenue fund.

Gov. John Gilligan has said he objects to any raid on that fund unless the revenue is replaced. The general revenue fund is used to pay routine state expenses.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, said he believes the House resolution called for a constitutional amendment on the proposal will have trouble making it through the Senate.

"It will have to be passed within 10 days to make it on the May ballot," Maloney said. "I don't believe that can happen."

Under the Democratic proposal, the state would issue a $300 million in bonds. The bonds would be retired over 15 years with the property tax increase.

Opposition Republicans contend the proposal violated Gov. John Gilligan's pledge of no new taxes during the current biennium.

The bonus, if approved by the Senate and the voters, would go to an estimated 545,000 veterans who served in any branch of the armed service since 1961.

Each would be compensated $10 for each month of active domestic service, $15 a month for any foreign service and $20 a month for service in the Asian theater between Dec. 1961, and Aug. 4, 1974.

Veterans discharged because of wounds suffered in Vietnam would get the maximum $500 regardless of the amount of time they served.

One-time payments of $1,000 would go to survivors of Ohioans killed in Southeast Asian. Riffe said survivors of 2,996 Ohioans would be eligible.

In the Senate, there was no floor action, but nine bills were introduced. Thirteen others were introduced in the House.

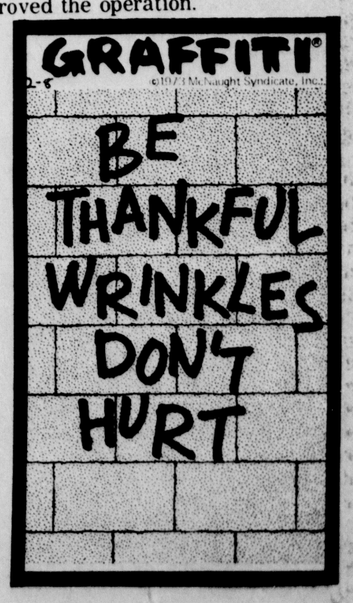

Among the measures are ones that would:

—Conform state unemployment compensation laws with those of the federal government and extended benefits to Great Lakes seamen. Benefits would increase about five per cent.

—License automobile repair dealers. Lift the $3,000 maximum exemption from the state income tax ($500 for the taxpayer and the same for each of up to five dependents). Sen. Maloney said it discriminated against large families.

—Abolish municipal courts in Franklin and Hamilton counties, Springfield, Bryan, Toledo, Maumee, Oregon and Sylvania and a police court in Ottawa Hills. All would be replaced within municipal divisions within the common pleas courts in those counties.

—Designate the third Monday in January as "Martin Luther King Day," and make it a legal holiday.

Soil payments face rejection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid congressional cries of whipcracking, bullet-biting and bellyaching over the battle of the budget, President Nixon has lost an opening skirmish—but indications are that he may eventually veto to victory.

After rejecting Republican ideas for compromise, the House voted Wednesday to require Nixon to restart the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) he ordered halted last Christmas. REAP helps farmers save their soil.

With 199 Democrats and 52 Republicans in favor of making REAP mandatory with $225 million through June 30, Nixon was beaten 251 to 142. Twenty Democrats voted against the bill.

But, if it had been a ballot to override a veto, Nixon would have won by 11 votes. A two-thirds majority is needed to override. Many believe another presidential veto is assured if it passes the Senate.

When several Republicans raised the threat of veto, Rep. W.R. Poage, D-Tex., chairman of the Agriculture Committee and chief advocate of the bill, responded in House debate: "Let him crack his whip!"

But Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Airx., said Nixon "asked Congress to go with him in cutting expenditures ... and this is the first bullet we're being asked to bite. It may not be much money, but the world is watching the House to see if we have the courage to do the tough thing."

Cold front brings snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cold front stretching from southern Texas to the eastern Great Lakes triggered snow, sleet, rain and freezing drizzle over much of the nation today as temperatures dropped into the teens as far south as the Texas Panhandle.

Thuderstorms dumped heavy rains on Arkansas and Tennessee during the night. Jonesboro, Ark. soaked up nearly 2 and Pine Bluff, Ark., 1.4 inches. An inch of snow accumulated in Pueblo, Colo.; Lubbock, Tex.; Flint, Mich., and Toledo and Dayton, Ohio.

Snow whitened the region from the eastern Great Lakes southward, turning to rain over Kentucky. Drizzle and rain fell from Alabama along the west slopes of the Applachians into northern New England.

A few scattered showers remained from central California to southwest Oregon and skies were mostly cloudy over the Great Basin. Clear skies prevailed over the northern Plains and the western Great Lakes region.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 11 at International Falls., Minn., to 67 at Corpus Christi, Tex.

Train derails near Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fifteen cars of a Norfolk and Western freight train derailed Wednesday scattering 200 tons of coke along the railroad bed on the outskirts of the village of Lockbourne, south of here.

There were no injuries and damage was limited to the freight cars, rails and a utility pole, a line spokesman said.

Elwood Clemmons, engineer of the 40 car train, said he believed the weight of the cars pushed the ties and the rails out of alignment because of soft ground.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Wet and snowy weather returned to most of Ohio Wednesday night and early Thursday with conditions expected to change Friday into generally fair weather but lower temperatures.

A cold front has moved eastward across the state, but another is approaching from the northwest.

Snow accumulations were small in the early morning hours but were expected to increase slightly during the day.

The National Weather Service said the cold front which began moving across the state was situated in the extreme eastern edge of the state by early Thursday.

Snow accumulations of an inch were reported by both Toledo and Dayton at 1 a.m. and the snow depth was up to an inch at Cleveland by 6 a.m. Snow depth reports were incomplete over the remainder of the state, but eastern Ohio had very little as the precipitation during most of the night was in the form of rain.

Snow depths of one to three inches are predicted for most of the state before it ends later today.

Along with the snow the cold front brought much colder air into Ohio and temperatures are expected to continue falling and be in the 20s throughout the state by early this afternoon. Low readings in the 5 to 15 degree range are forecast for tonight and cold wave warnings are in effect for all of Ohio except those areas adjacent to Lake Erie.

Snow will end gradually from the west today and clearing is expected in most of the state tonight except the snow belt areas along the shores of Lake Erie and over the higher elevations of northeastern Ohio. Here snow flurries and locally heavier snow squalls could add some snow accumulation tonight.

With the generally fair weather and continued cold temperatures expected for Friday, there will be increasing cloudiness and a chance of snow again Friday night or Saturday as the new frontal system approaches from the northwest.

Moderating temperatures with a chance of snow Saturday. Lows Saturday and Sunday in the teens. Highs in the 20s and 30s. Lows Monday in the 20s. Highs in the 30s and 40s.

Rogers sees Laos truce

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today the United States expects a Laos cease-fire soon and a withdrawal of all foreign forces from that country.

By U.S. estimate, some 60,000 North Vietnamese troops are in Laos, which has been a prime transit route for North Vietnamese forces heading to neighboring South Vietnam.

Testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Rogers also got clear notice from Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., to go slow on pushing postwar U.S. reconstruction aid for North Vietnam.

became "effective today" — touching off the UTU strike.

"They reduce the size of train crews from three to two and eliminate overmanning, but only as jobs are vacated because of retirement, death, etc.," said the trustees of the new work rules.

The Penn Central goal is to eliminate 5,700 jobs by 1980 and, thus, save about $100 million annually.

The walkout, if not swiftly settled, could deal a death blow to the giant system. The railroad says it is now losing $600,000 daily and will need around $800 million in fresh federal money to become solvent again by 1976 — and only then if at least 3,000 of its 20,000 miles of track are discontinued.

Life expectancy shortened for American returnees ?

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — If previous wars are any guide, prisoners returning from captivity in North or South Vietnam may have longterm medical problems and less-than-normal life expectancy, the top Pentagon consultant on POWs said today.

Roger E. Shields, prisoner-of-war specialist for the assistant secretary of defense for international security, said studies of men released during the Korean War show "that POWs have medical problems that stay with them through life and that life expectancy is measurably shortened."

Shields arrived Wednesday at Clark Air Base, the Asian headquarters for the U.S. prisoner returnee program that he played a large part in designing.

"We can't make up to these guys for time lost," he said, noting that doctors who have studied previous prisoners urge that the Vietnam returnees be eased gradually into normal life.

The length of captivity is the major difference between the Vietnam POWs and the captives released after World War II and the Korean War, Shields said.

"Before, the longest time an American POW had been held was 3½ years," he said. "Now the average length of internment is more than four years, and some POWs are into their eighth and ninth years of captivity."

He added that the attitudes of Americans during the Vietnam war "have not been the traditional attitudes of Americans during a conflict. The families have had to live with this, and these men will also have to adjust to it."

Full-scale rioting brings 5 more deaths in Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — Five more persons were killed in Belfast as gun battles, bombing, rioting and arson raged across the capital of Northern Ireland.

The victims Wednesday night included a fireman shot by a sniper, a youngster murdered by an assassination squad and three Protestant guerrillas killed in a shootout with the British army. The confirmed death toll in 3½ years of religious warfare rose to 717.

Rioting was widespread; at one time every available fire engine in Belfast was at work; and the army was under fire from both sides.

"We have lost count of the number of homes and shops bombed and burned," a police spokesman said during the evening.

Roman Catholic homes also were burned in at least three other towns.

Protestant hoodlums roaming in packs called Tartan Gangs desecrated a Roman Catholic church in Belfast and started to smash up the home of the parish priest, but the army drove them off with a barrage of rubber bullets.

Other Tartans set fire to another Catholic church and besieged a convent school for mentally handicapped children. The 25 children were getting ready for bed when a hail of rocks and bottles smashed the dormitory windows. One of the nuns took the children downstairs and led them in a round of songs to take their minds off the rioting. But the barrage shattered the stained glass windows of the tiny chapel.

Again the army drove the mob off with rubber bullets.

Dozens of others were injured during the day, including two men treated for sword wounds, hospitals reported. No details on that were available.

The bloodshed coincided with a 24-hour strike called by militant Protestants to protest the detention of two suspected terrorists and to demand the return of the suspended provincial parliament.

Preliminary plans completed for April 6-8 Home Show

Preliminary plans for the 1973 Fayette County Home Show were readied at a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Terrace Lounge.

Bob Harper, of the First National Bank's Washington Square office, who will serve as chairman of the Home Show this year, said the event will open April 6 for a three-day stand in the Mahan and Youth buildings on the Fairground.

Harper pointed out that the exhibiting merchants will be able to erect their displays April 5, and April 9 has been set aside for the exhibitors to tear remove them.

The Home Show hours will be from 6-9 p.m. Friday, April 6; 1-9 p.m. Saturday, April 7, and 1-6 p.m. April 8.

Miscellaneous prizes will be given away every half hour during all three days of the Home Show, and a grand prize will be awarded at the close of each session.

The general admission will be 25 cents per person, according to Harper.

Steve Reisinger, of the Washington Savings Bank, will serve as Harper's co-chairman for the annual event.

Elderly nurse appeals slash in VA benefits

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Veterans Administration will hold a hearing for an 80-year-old Army nurse whose VA benefits were cut after her Social Security benefits were increased.

The VA agreed to the hearing after the woman, Elice C. Kermath, filed a class-action suit in U.S. District Court seeking to get the VA decision overturned. Judge Thomas Lambros issued a temporary injunction against the VA and ordered the agency to restore Mrs. Kermath's pension payments pending the outcome of the suit.

Lambros said he would lift the order once the VA hearing is arranged, but that since the suit affects all veterans receiving benefits, it would continue to determine whether a federal agency can terminate benefits to an individual without providing administrative hearing and appeal procedures.

Old sailing ship may put to sea

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The old square-rigger Star of India may put to sea again briefly in June — under full sail for the first time in 50 years.

The remodeled 110-year-old sailing ship will make a short trip off the Southern California coast in order to be photographed, said Capt. Kenneth T. Reynard, the vessel's skipper.

The Star of India was launched in 1863 under the British flag at the Isle of Man. The merchantman was retired in 1923 and turned into a dockside museum.

Egyptians, Reds talk

CAIRO (AP) — Hafez Ismail, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's security adviser, has left for Moscow for talks with Soviet leaders on "the latest Middle East developments."

In Nova Scotia, white-tailed deer is the favorite big game animal, with over 20 thousands being taken each fall.

Opinion And Comment

Prospects for house reform

One writer reporting on the creation of a bipartisan committee to study House operations and propose reforms cited some illuminating examples of what might be done. This account noted, for instance, that "the study committee might see fit to recommend that welfare aid to the needy be shifted out of the House Ways and Means Committee, whose members and staff are far more attuned to trade and tax matters."

Or, said the reporter, the committee "might also find that health care issues might better be handled by some committee other than Interstate and Foreign Commerce; or that there should be closer coordination of foreign policy issues now scattered among a variety of committees." Just so. There are an abundance of possibilities for improvement in how the House functions.

It may be over-optimistic to suppose that the House is genuinely serious about reform — serious, that is, to the point of accepting necessary change even though it tromps on influential toes. Still, it is encouraging to find that a zealous and informed advocate of reform has been named to head the committee.

The chairman, Rep. Richard Bolling of Missouri, has written books on the subject, and has not been at all reticent about badgering his colleagues to improve the efficiency of House operations. There is reason to hope that the committee will come up with sound recommendations for change. It is at that point that we shall see how determined the House is to improve its performance.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

A cease-fire for Northern Ireland?

The story goes that Izzy Stone, who used to publish his own I.F. Stone's Weekly and now contributes to the New Left-oriented New York Review of Books, recently cornered conservative editor Bill Buckley and invited him to make a mutual pilgrimage to the wailing wall.

"Bill," he has been quoted as saying, "we've been betrayed, you by Nixon, me by Mao Tse-tung."

Mr. Buckley assures me the story is apocryphal, but the attitudes it illustrates are real. What has happened is that the Nixon-Kissinger team, by arranging a Big-Power compromise over Indochina, has jolted the hopes of both Left and Right of winning a clear-cut victory in a struggle that is bound to continue in a clandestine way.

Whether President Nixon and Henry Kissinger have been wise will not be known for some time to come. To enlist Mao-Tse-tung and Brezhev in a common enterprise of establishing a cease-fire in Vietnam, Nixon has had to commit himself to bailing out both of the great Communist powers in their present predicaments.

The Russians are getting absolutely essential supplies of wheat from the U.S.; Peking has been reassured that Washington will throw its diplomatic and economic weight into the scales to keep the Soviets from making a pre-emptive strike at Red Chinese atomic installations in inner Asia. The Nixon largesse means that both the Soviet and Red Chinese governments will survive, possibly to grow sufficiently arrogant again to confront us to our mortal peril in the early Nineteen Eighties.

WELL, the Eighties are a long way off, and, as John Maynard Keynes once said, "in the long run we are all dead." The war-weary American people, wishing to live in the present, have forced the surcease today no matter what it may portend for the next generation. Now that the Nixon-Kissinger team has chosen to make the best of the situation, compelling the Communists to damp down at least one "war of liberation," why not squeeze some extra drops out of the bittersweet fruit0 There is the guerrilla war in Northern Ireland, for example. Surely the British would welcome U.S. help in keeping Soviet-made rockets from reaching the Irish Republican Army (IRA) underground revolutionaries in bloody Ulster.

If a surveillance team can police the amount of miliary replacement equipment reaching Indochina by devious jungle routes, it would surely be a much easier matter to dry up arms going to IRA terrorists. Britain and America control all the sea lanes leading to Ireland, and the Jack Lynch government in Dublin is tired of gun running and bloodshed along its Ulster border. If the Soviets want U.S. grain and U.S. oil-and-gas capital equipment, an extended quid pro quo could be a moratorium on those arms going to the IRA.

THE ATTEMPT to unify Northern and Southern Ireland by force was always idiotic, for, no matter how bad the terror, the commitment of the great middle to the basic bourgeois virtues of making a living was too powerful to yield to the embattled gunmen of the two extremes. In spite of all the violence of the past three years, Ulster has continued to grow economically.

Export sales for 1971 rose from $1.86 billion to $2.1 billion, an increase of 13 per cent over the previous year. The American and other foreign investment in Ulster has continued to expand; it was $300 million in 1966 and it is $550 million today.

Whatever the strife in the streets, there has been peace on the factory floor. The Belfast shipyards have recently received $25 million in orders from Norway for bulk cargo carriers. So it has been business as usual in the bread-and-butter areas of Ulster life.

Nixon and Kissinger have made a good beginning toward liquidating the Maoist-Che Guevara world guerilla movement. Given a continued toughness in our negotiating stance, both Peking and Moscow can surely be prevailed upon to call off their "liberationist" dogs wherever they may happen to be.

The sudden, heart-breaking death of Lyndon Johnson carries a very personal poignancy for black people. Not since Abraham Lincoln has a President contributed so much to the struggle for racial equality.

Important as they were, the accomplishments of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman pale beside those of Johnson. And where John Kennedy recognized the validity of our struggle, Lyndon Johnson embraced it, made it his own.

Ironically, Johnson was a Southerner and was initially chosen as Vice President to win Southern votes. Yet he never failed black people. Like Harry Truman, his origins were among working people. He always enjoyed the trust and support of working people, even in his early days as a Texas congressman when his basic constituency was the Mexican-Americans in his district.

His Cabinet, the finest ever assembled, included the first Negro of Cabinet rank, Robert Weaver. His appointments to the Supreme Court were uniformly progressive and included the first black, Thurgood Marshall. And, in his selection of Hubert Humphrey as Vice President, he chose the one man who throughout his political life had been the most closely identified with civil rights when other, less controversial figures were available.

IT IS in his civil rights legialation that the Johnson legacy is most enduring and indispensable. Yet even here his detractors often accuse him of achieving no more than the fulfillment of the Kennedy program.

And while it is true that some Great Society legislation represented an extension of those programs formulated during Kennedy's Administration, it is also true that Lyndon Johnson's vision extended well past the New Frontier.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Feb. 8, the 39th day of 1973. There are 326 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1904, the Japanese besieged Port Arthur in Manchuria. It was the beginning of the Russo-Japanese War.

On this date:

In 1587, Mary Queen of Scots was beheaded after being accused of plotting the murder of England's Queen Elizabeth.

In 1725, Peter the Great of Russia died and was succeeded by his widow, Catherine.

In 1861, Arkansas troops seized the U.S. arsenal at Little Rock as Southern states were rebelling against the federal government.

In 1940, in World War II, every 10th person was shot in two villages near Warsaw, Poland, in reprisal for the deaths of two German soldiers.

In 1955, Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov resigned and was succeeded by Marshal Nikolai A. Bulganin.

Ten years ago: Premier Abdul Karim Kassim of Iraq was overthrown in a revolt led by the air force.

Five years ago: Democratic Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York denounced the Vietnam war and said the U.S. could not win it.

One year ago: Enemy forces fired more than 25 rockets into the big American air base at Danang in South Vietnam.

Today's birthdays: actress Lana Turner is 53. Actress Betty Field is 55.

Thought for today: I never lied to shield a woman—or myself—King Lardner, American humorist and writer, 1885-1933.

New wings for the mail

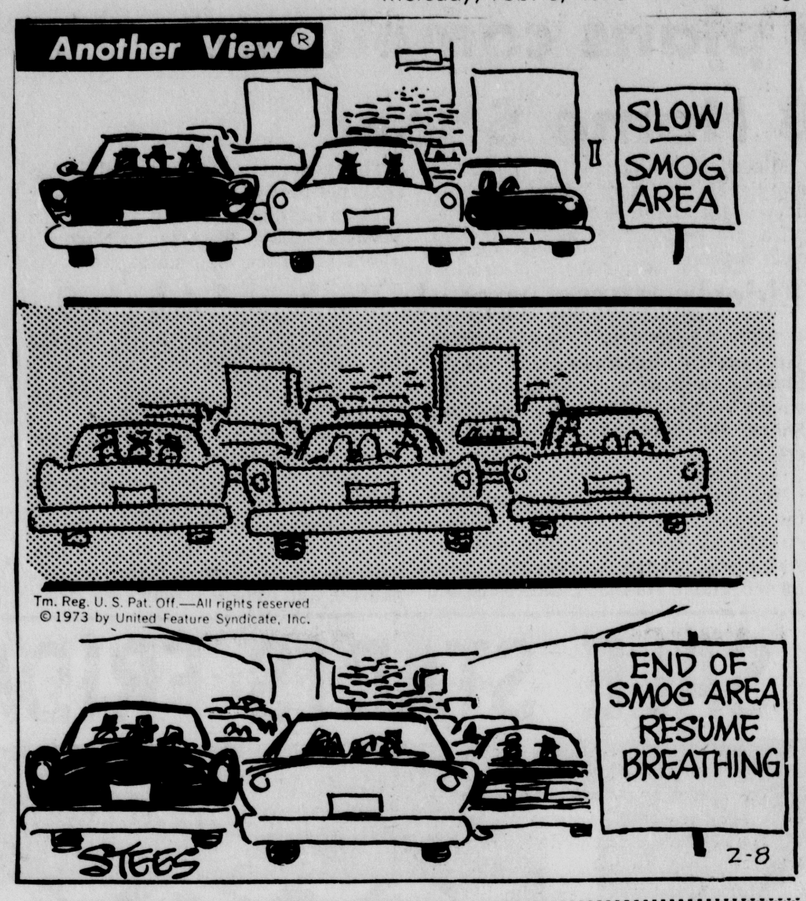

An intriguing though perhaps impracticable idea was broached in a recent letter to the Los Angeles Times by W. J. Thompson of that city. His comment dealt with that perennial subject, the slowness of the mail service:

"I have a simple solution to suggest. All postal service employes will be paid by check, mailed from randomly selected locations in plain envelopes. The resultant pain and inconvenience of consistently late receipt of their own wages will certainly prompt concern for efficient mail service."

A devilish concept, no doubt, when considered from the standpoint of the postal worker. Quite possibly an unfair one, too, since there must be many such workers who strive with might and main to speed the mails and could not be driven to greater effort by such a goad.

All the same, much experience with lethargic mail deliveries tempts one to think it might be worth a try. Slow workers would be stimulated to pep up their performance, and that would work to everyone's advantage.

The government's considering paying millions for illegal Turkish opium to keep it out of this country. If you can't lick 'em, pay.'em.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

If you can't afford — don't buy

DEAR ABBY: I teach a course here in Dalton Junior College in consumer self protection, so I was especially interested in that letter from "Broke and Disgusted," whose wife insisted on an expensive wedding for their daughter even though they were in hock up to their ears. May I offer some practical suggestions?

Throw away your credit cards, and don't buy ANYTHING you don't have the cash. If you can'tkeep up with the Joneses, stay away from them. When it comes to buying groceries, check the newspaper ads carefully and compare prices. You can save a small fortune and eat a lot better if you buy house brands. Develop some self control! Don't buy anything on impulse. Go to two or three other stores and see what's available there, then wait a day or two and think it over. You'll be surprised how much you DON'T want what you thought you thought you couldn't live without yesterday.

RAYMOND L. CHAMBERS,
DALTON, GA.

DEAR PROFESSOR: Gee, I wish I were in Dixie. I'd sign up for your course. You make a lot of sense.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this from the hospital after having given birth to our first child. He is a healthy, beautiful baby boy and we are so thrilled because my husband is an only son, and now we are assured of having someone to carry on the family name.

My husband and I decided to name our son. Please don't mention the name if you use this letter. It's an unusual name, but my husband and I both like it. Well, last evening his mother called and begged me to please change the baby's name. She said that nobody in the family liked the name we selected and she thought out of respect to my father in law, we should have named the baby after HIM. (My father-in-law is still living.)

I didn't know what else to say, so I just said, "I will talk to my husband about it."

I spoke to my husband, and he said he will leave it up to me. Abby, now I am on the spot. I don't want his family against me, but I don't want to change the baby's name. Can you help me?

NEW MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Tell your husband that you don't want the responsibility of making that decision alone. Discuss it-and let it be known that the decision was jointly made. And since you wrote to me, I'm all for naming the boy exactly what you prefer!

DEAR ABBY: I am 83 and live alone; my principal activities since my retirement from the teaching staff at Purdue University are "relative hunting and working crossword puzzles. I take time out every morning to read the headlines, editorials, and Dear Abby.

I am moved to comment about the Dad who took his 14-year-old son to a football game, left at halftime to take some pills for his asthma, and had not returned by the time the game had ended. The frightened lad waited by his Dad's parked car until the stadium lights were turned off, then made his way to a phone and called his sister to come and get him. Together they drove to the nearest police station to report the "missing" Dad, and there they learned that he had been locked up by a policeman for "drunkenness."

That reminded me of a similar incident which occurred near Corning, N.Y., where I was raised. A local workman on his way home from work tied his horse and wagon at the watering trough and went into a bar for a drink. Later that evening the local constable found him leaning against a tree and locked him up for drunkenness. The next morning the horse was still at the trough, but its owner was dead-in jail. He had been sick, not drunk.

Curbstone comments

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments by the Pavement Plato:

Do you ever stop to think how much of your life is spent in performing rituals?

A wild animal lives largely by obeying his instincts, a human being by the rituals he follows.

Rituals are the little habits of conduct by which we meet the common occurences of our existence. They govern us from dawn to dawn, from Monday through Sunday. They are helpful because they tell us what to do in most situations, but sometimes they also bore us half to death.

They become too patterned, too chorelike, and at times we yearn to break out of the confinement of rituals and do something wild, free and mildly insane. And, of course, at times most of us do.

Here are a few commonplace rituals:

Shaving, the most irksome task of any man's life.

Brushing your teeth.

Spraying something in your armpits so you won't smell like nature meant you to.

Telling a hospital patient he looks swell when he looks like hell.

Saying something nice about the hero of the occasion at a funeral, when your private opinion is that the world would have been better off if he had died ten years before.

Picking up bar and restaurant checks for liberated women.

Laughing at the right time when the boss tells a joke, no matter whether you memorized the joke yourself when you were in high school.

Congratulating the pastor of your church on Sunday on the powerful sermon he preached that you never really listened to.

Going to functions where they have after dinner speeches.

Telling our innocent little children how they must behave if they want to grow up and be safe and happy — like us.

So we wear out our lives from birth to the tomb, performing this little ritual...that little ritual. What would happen if for a single day every person in the world ceased to go through any of his usual rituals whatsoever?

That's easy. We'd all be thrown in jail before nightfall. Without rituals, people get into nothing but trouble.

Appalling campaign cost

In the 1968 presidential campaign the three major candidates, Richard M. Nixon, Hubert H. Humphrey and George C. Wallace, spent a total of around 44 million dollars. It now appears that in the past election President Nixon's outlay alone topped that figure by some two million.

Sen. George McGovern's campaign expenditures were well short of that, but he also poured out an enormous sum in his drive for the White House. The point here made is not that one major candidate for president outspent the other, but that the whole business of electing a chief executive for the nation has become appallingly expensive.

That is not a new conclusion, certainly; people have been throwing up their hands in alarm over presidential campaign spending for a long time now. It is a source of fresh dismay that, despite campaign spending reforms, the 1972 expenditures were greater than ever. Congress had better get back at the question.

Link coal comeback to eased pollution rules

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The growing need for energy should greatly boost the demand for coal, industry officials say, but rising costs and environmental regulations are hampering the process.

Charles T. Jones, vice president of Amherst Coal Co., says coal demand is expected by some to double over the next 15 years. Because of the energy crisis and the growing need for fuel, he says, "I can't help but be a little optimistic."

However, Jones and other industry officials said at a news conference Wednesday, much of the nation's coal may be virtually outlawed if technology is not available to meet 1975 pollution standards, and labor and regulatory costs are driving the cost of mining up, reducing American coal's competitiveness in the world markets.

L. James Huegel, executive vice president of Consolidation Coal Co., said that if technology to meet 1975 sulphur oxide standards is not ready to go on time, 41 per cent of Consolidation's northern West Virginia producton (some 32 million tons in 1972; will be outlawed.)

He blamed the sharp environmental restrictions on "a definite overreaction. I think we all recognize these (air quality compliance) schedules must be pushed back."

Firms represented in the news conference included Consolidation, Amherst, Carbon Fuel Sales Co., Eastern Associated Coal Corp., Valley Camp Coal Co. and Island Creek Coal Co.

Exports make up roughly one-third of the state's coal market, Huegel said. But the cost of mining is pushing prices far above those quoted for coal from Australia, Canada and Poland.

Utilities purchase nearly half of the state's production for electrical generation, Huegel added. But price and environmental restrictions are forcing utilities to turn to other fuels, notably imported oil.

"The United States can't continue buying foreign oil at the rate we are now," Jones said. He noted that the imports are straining America's balance of payments overseas, and that other nations now need much of the same oil. "Coal is the only alternative."

Complaints by some major utilities that they cannot obtain sufficient low-sulphur coal in West Virginia to meet the 1975 air standards have been answered by charges from environmentalists that they are ignoring the state's large reserves of low-sulphur coal.

Huegel and the other executives said critics must realize there is more to the situation than simple reserve tonnage figures.

Much of the low-sulphur coal in reserve is in thin seams of around 40 inches, and miners are not eager to work in such conditions. Other seams, although low in sulphur, are low in quality and not compatible with many power plant furnace designs.

Hear arguments on busing plan

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Oral arguments on a massive busing plan for students in Detroit and 52 suburban school districts were scheduled today before the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

A three-judge panel of the circuit court ruled on the case Dec. 8, agreeing with the findings of U.S. District Court Judge Stephen Roth that the Detroit school system is segregated.

Shipping season ends

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)— The longest shipping season in Great Lakes history was scheduled to end today with the downbound passage through the Soo Locks of the A.H. Ferbert and the Cason J. Calloway, two iron ore carriers owned by United States Steel Corp.

But the court vacated its own order Jan. 16, and agreed to convene a full nine-judge panel to re-hear arguments on the controversial plan.

Wedding vows repeated by couple wed 73 years

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — John Virgil Kemplen, 95, and his wife Leona, 89, repeated their marriage vows on their 73rd anniversary Wednesday in a nursing home.

"We want to show that a man and wife can live together unto death—there's no use in separation," said Kemplen.

He suffered polio in 1945 and lost his eyesight six years later. Mrs. Kemplen, in a traditional white wedding dress and veil borrowed from her granddaughter, is confined to a wheel chair.

She said the second marriage was her idea. A number of couples at the Oxford View Nursing Home have done it, she said.

"Through the fear of God and love of a woman, you can have a marriage that lasts this long," said her husband.

They feared that they wouldn't live long enough for the repeat of their marraige vowels on the anniversary. Both became ill in November.

The Kemplens were married Feb. 7, 1900 in a double ceremony with her sister Willie and his brother, James, at Albany, Ky.

She said her husband was "the prettiest man I ever saw. I met him two weeks before our wedding at my father's home in Albany."

Kemplen became an evangelist in 1909 and served in various churches, and moved to Hamilton, Ohio, in 1929.

Sometimes he "preached with patched pants," Leona recalled.

"Evangelism was my greatest challenge," he said, adding that his motto was: "God first, Leona and the family second, and helping people in the world."

During the first year of their marriage she had typhoid fever.

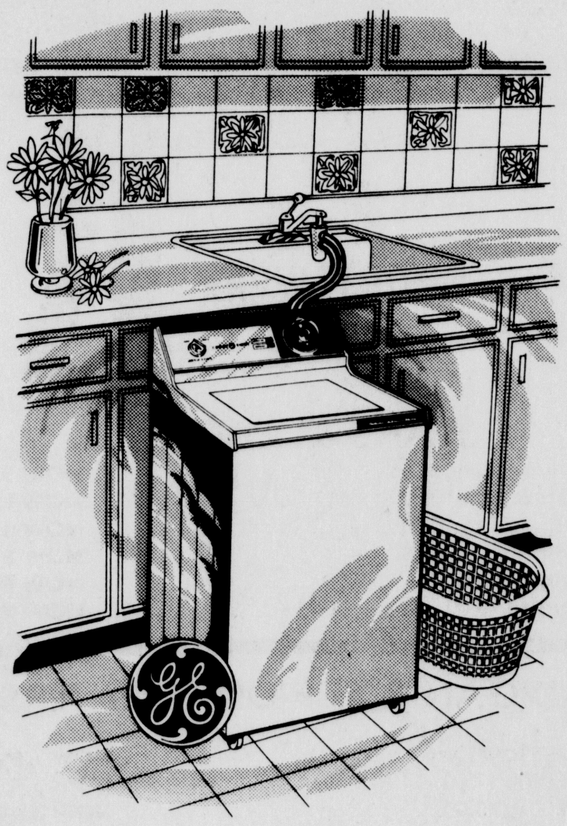

"I've been sick all my life," she said, "I was struck by a car, had a stroke and broke my hip.

"The greatest thing is that he stayed with me, even though I was sick. He always said I'm worth a million dollars to him."

Martha Guild studies women of the Bible

Members of Martha Guild, First Christian Church, are studying the women of the Bible. Mrs. Naomi Helm, teacher, presents one at each guild meeting.

Seventeen were present when devotions were given by Miss Margaret Gibson and Mrs. Carl Meriweather. Reports were made by Mrs. Marvin Smith a. ' Miss Norma Flee.

The group will make tray favors for the Hospital for Easter. Mrs. Ward Brown is chairman of the cancer pad project, and Mrs. Smith, for the Mother's Day Tea.

On Monday, members will meet at the church at 10 a.m. for an all-day work session. Each is asked to bring a sack lunch, scizzors and needles.

Cards were signed for shut-ins and Valentines prepared to mail to patients in the nursing homes.

Quilt squares were packaged for Miss Linda Waterman, who is a missionary in Africa.

Mrs. Orpha Willis, a guest, urged all to attend the Fellowship meeting, planned soon. The next meeting will be March 6 at the church. Mrs. Carl Meriweather will be in charge of devotions.

Mix together bacon fat or peanut butter with bird seed. Pack into the open spaces of pine cones. Attach cords to the top of cones and hang where you can see them. This will draw many wild birds to your yard.

Before starting on a long trip, put together a basic emergency kit, labeling each medication. It's a good idea, too, for each member of the family making the trip to have a thorough physical examination before starting out.

Engagement announced

MISS TERESA FREEMAN

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Freeman, of Auxier, Ky., announce the engagement of their daughter, Teresa, to Gale E. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard E. (Terry) Moore, of Sabina.

Miss Freeman is a former member of Kappa Delta Tau Sorority and a 1969 graduate of Prestonburg High School. Her fiance is a 1969 graduate of East Clinton High School, Lees Creek.

A June wedding is planned.

Class topic is 'Freedom'

Refreshments were served from Valentine-decorated tables. Serving on the committee were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Rapp, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Bloomer and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Redd

GOOD REASON

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — Dorothy Thompson, a former teacher who has become the first woman on the Regular Spartanburg police force, was asked why she quit teaching for police work.

"It's safer," she said.

To help a garment keep its shape while being made, place a row of machine stitching one-half inch from the cut edge of material before sewing up. This is also a great help in preventing raveling on certain materials.

'Fair Time' is theme for county Flower Show

The Fayette Garden Clubs Presidents Council met at the Sulky Restaurant, with Mrs. Donald Meredith, president of the group, conducting the meeting. Mrs. Jean Craig explained "Operation Trees," and Mrs. Robert Meriweather read minutes of the last meeting, which was held in November. She also gave the treasurer's report.

Plans for the Fair Flower Show were made. The theme is "Fair Time." The entries are:

1. Family Home - flowers in homemade containers, to show rythm.
2. Our Youth - all green foliage.
3. The Little Children - miniature, under 6 inches.
4. Senior Citizens - an arrangement using weathered or driftwood with one or more flowers.
5. The Fair Queen - arrangement using three white candles with flowers.
6. Life in the Country - your own interpretation, accompanied by a card. Painted material may be used.
7. Fayette Merchants - mass arrangement.
8. Food Producers - using home-grown fruit and or vegetables. Mat may be used.
9. Peace - a white container with white flowers and foliage.

Those present were Mrs. Alvin Armintrout, Mrs. Lewis Thomson, Mrs. Lee Cleland and Mrs. Dwight Duff, of Town and Country Club; Mrs. Robert Meriweather, Fayette Club; Mrs. Fred Rivenburgh, Mrs. Lyle Hanawalt, Posy; Mrs. Meredith and Mrs. Jean Craig, of Washington Club; Mrs. Willard Bonham and Mrs. Lucille Braden, Twin Oaks.

The next meeting will be March 5.

'American History Month' observed by local DAR

Mrs. Robert Cannon was hostess Monday afternoon for the meeting of the Washington C. H. chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Forty Daughters and one guest, Mrs. Florence Saxton Inskeep, were present when the Regent, Mrs. R. Dean Powell, opened the chapter in ritualistic form. Mrs. Marvin Roszmann gave devotions.

Mrs. Jane Porter Gartner and Mrs. Harold Slagle read the state regent's and president general's messages. The national defense message was presented by Mrs. John Sagar.

The local chapter will act as chairman for the president general, state regent and conference guests on Monday, March 19. . Mrs. Willard Bitzer, chairman for American History Month, (February) told of visiting nine local schools to interest pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades in the essay contest, "A Patriot of 1773." There were 68 pupils who participated. Winners will be honored at the George Washington Tea, Feb. 22, in the youth room of Grace United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Eugene Rahfuse, state chairman, of Hamilton, guest speaker for the afternoon, said that the "best thing one derives from history is the enthusiasm that it raises."

The Washington C. H. chapter will have two pages at the state conference and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson will be hostess for the Martha Washington committee.

Hostesses, serving a dessert course, were Mrs. Cannon, Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, Mrs. Robert Lisk, Mrs. Virtus Kruse, Mrs. J. Earl McLean, Mrs. Owen Gartner, Mrs. Roy Porter, Miss Elizabeth Trent, Mrs. Ernest Stanforth, Mrs. Jean Dunlap, Mrs. Virginia Dews, Mrs. E. P. Lindsay and Miss Vera V. Veail.

Mrs. Bonecutter hostess to Twin Oaks Club

Mrs. Harold Bonecutter welcomed the Twin Oaks Garden Club to her home for a meeting, when Mrs. Thomas Braden, president, opened the session with a poem, "Good Old Ohio."

Reports were presented by Mrs. Dana Kellenberger and Mrs. Willard Bonham. Mrs. Eugene Thompson announced the club will serve dinner to a company and their guests on Feb. 20. The ways and means committee will be in charge.

Mrs. Braden gave a report on the council meeting and led a discussion of the Fayette County Fair Flower show, for which the theme this year is "Fair Time."

Mrs. Howard Barney will be hostess for the next club meeting.

Mrs. Wilbur Hoppes presented the program. She read an article about John Turnipseed and suggested getting the menfolk in on gardening. She also presented an article, "Gardening for Better Living," saying, that February is the month for important decisions concerning next summer's garden. Sowing seeds indoors in a sunny window or under lights, is a way to get a jump on spring. If 1973 seed catalogues have not arrived, one may write for them, she said.

Horticulture hints were given by Mrs. Barney, who suggested bringing branches of spring flowering trees and shrubs indoors and standing them in water in a moderately warm room. They will soon flower, she said.

Mrs. Virgil Garringer assisted in serving refreshments to nine members.

Gamma CCL schedules AFS student

Gamma Child Conservation League has scheduled Miss Claudia Becht, AFS student at Miami Trace High School, to speak at the April meeting to be held in the home of Mrs. Harry Townsend.

The group met with Mrs. Opal Ault for the February meeting, Mrs. Maynard Denen conducting the meeting. A moment of silence was observed for the recent signing of the Peace Treaty and the return of prisoners of war.

Various reports were heard and approved. It was announced that Mrs. Linda Garringer, nee Linda Leeth, of Jamestown, who was recently injured in an auto accident, had been transferred from Memorial Hospital to Mount Carmel Hospital, Columbus, on Wednesday.

Also it was announced that the style show planned for all CCL leagues and their friends, will be held at Miami Trace High School on March 30 instead of the 29th. Each member of the leagues is to bring a dessert for the dessert smorgasbord. The style show will begin at 8 p.m.

Ever bake an applesauce pie?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Around Boston, Massachusetts, applesauce pies were popular in the past century. These were made chiefly with applesauce, sugar and eggs. But as the years have passed, applesauce pies have changed. One good cook adds golden raisins and a streusel topping. When we tested this version our tasters applauded, and the recipe follows.

APPLESAUCE RAISIN CRUMB PIE

1 can (16 ounces) or 1 jar (15 ounces) applesauce
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
¼ cup butter
Dash of salt
1 cup golden raisins
4 eggs
Unbaked 10-inch pie shell
¾ cup buttermilk biscuit mix
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Into a 2-quart saucepan turn the applesauce and brown sugar. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 20 minutes; remove from heat. Add ¼ cup butter and the salt; stir until butter is melted. Stir in raisins. Cool to room temperature.

In a small mixing bowl beat eggs well; add to cooled applesauce mixture and blend well. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven, on rack below center, for 20 minutes.

Meanwhile in a medium mixing bowl stir together the biscuit mix and granulated sugar; with a pastry blend cut in the 2 tablespoons butter until the size of small peas. After pie has baked for 20 minutes, sprinkle the biscuit-mix mixture evenly over top and continue baking in the 375-degree oven until crust and top are golden brown — 25 more minutes. Place pan on wire rack to cool before cutting.

Sheriff wears jail clothes to show need for funds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sheriff Richard Hongisto is wearing the tattered clothing of a jailbird in new strategy to squeeze more money out of City Hall and Mayor Joseph Alioto for jail operations.

"I just want to get the job done," the 37-year-old sheriff told newsmen Tuesday. He was garbed in ripped pants, socks with holes, truncated shoes and threadbare shirt — standard jailhouse issue. The shoes have the toes cut off so they'll fit feet of any size.

Hongisto, who said he hasn't given up a $500,000 suit to force city and county officials to improve "degrading, negative" jail facilities, said:

"From now on, I'll be wearing this around my City Hall office and at outside speaking engagements to hammer home a message. We need more funds to bring our jails up to minimum state standards, not only for better clothing issue, but better medical and dental care, improved sanitation, better food."

Hongisto's new outfit is one which had been worn by an inmate at the main jail near San Bruno, just south of San Francisco.

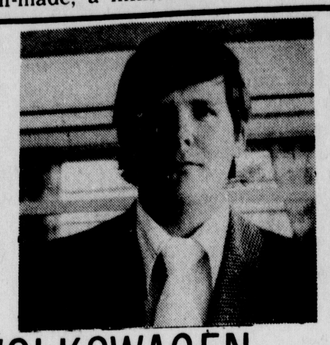

The new "message wardrobe" is the latest chapter in Hongisto's efforts to ease the plight of more than 1,100 county jail inmates. And the sheriff doesn't let his master's degree in criminology get in the way of street language if he figures a point has to be made.

Hongisto exploded when he learned the mayor was willing to give him only $25,000 instead of the $800,000 he wanted.

That was before Hongisto's $500,000 suit against the mayor and others was tossed out of court. The sheriff says he'll appeal.

Despite the epithet, Hongisto says he admires Alioto as "a brilliant man, self-made, a millionaire.

Plan food preparation for POWs

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Readjusting former American prisoners of war to the American diet is going to be "pretty tricky," a Navy dietitian says.

"They're going to be amazed at what we're eating now. We have a lot more convenience foods, frozen and packaged, and there are a lot more fad foods," Lt. Georgiana Banellis of Memphis Air Station said Tuesday.

The 25-year-old Logan, Utah, native will be in charge of reconstructing diets for a group of POWs from mid-South states who are scheduled to stay at the base hospital.

"They've missed all this stuff, this fad food. They're going to have it rough adjusting to the United States again. They may not remember what the food tastes like," she said.

"We will give them 1,200 calories intake and six light meals a day to begin. The main criteria is that you don't push them into it.

"We might start with one or two of the foods they particularly like and build from there. They will get meats, liver, dark green vegetables, oranges, tomatoes, and other foods with plenty of iron and vitamin C....

"Food might be a shock to the body so we'll begin without spicy, high-fat foods that are harder to digest."

R-H readers invited to join London tour

London in the early spring may not be the Riviera, Costa Del Sol or Hawaii, but it can be a fun place to visit.

London rapidly is becoming the stage center for live entertainment. The weather may not always be sunny and warm, but it is just as passable as that in New York for that time of year.

Because London is becoming the theater "mecca", the first scheduled trip of Newspaper Tours Ltd., with which The Record-Herald is associated, is a Theater Party to London. This economic package tour has two departures set, the first being Saturday, March 17, and the second, Saturday, March 31.

The tours will depart Port Columbus by mid-morning on Saturday and return late evening Sunday the following week.

The package, priced at $399 a person plus 10 per cent for taxes, tips and services covers roundtrip air transportation, Columbus to London, hotel facilities (two persons sharing room with private bath), transfers, sightseeing as indicated in itinerary, four theater productions of your selection, including a concert or ballet, and continental breakfast and meals enroute by air.

A deposit of $50 per person will hold a spot for you on this theatrical visit to "merrie olde England."

For further instructions and a brochure, call The Record-Herald and ask for "Linda". Reservations will be handled by this paper. Final instructions will be received by mail.

All events, transportation and hotel facilities, as well as the theater attractions, are confirmed.

Newspaper Tours Ltd. trips are organized and operated through the Richard Lewis Travel Service, Columbus (an experienced travel service in Columbus) to insure the best arrangements for our readers.

Trained watchdog bites policeman

CEDAR LAKE, Ind. (AP) — A 100-pound trained watchdog ignored two burglars who looted his master's place of business, then bit a policeman called to investigate.

Marvin Mann, owner of a service station along U.S. 41 here, said the dog was running around outside when he arrived early Tuesday morning and ignored the burglars as they fled from the rear of the building.

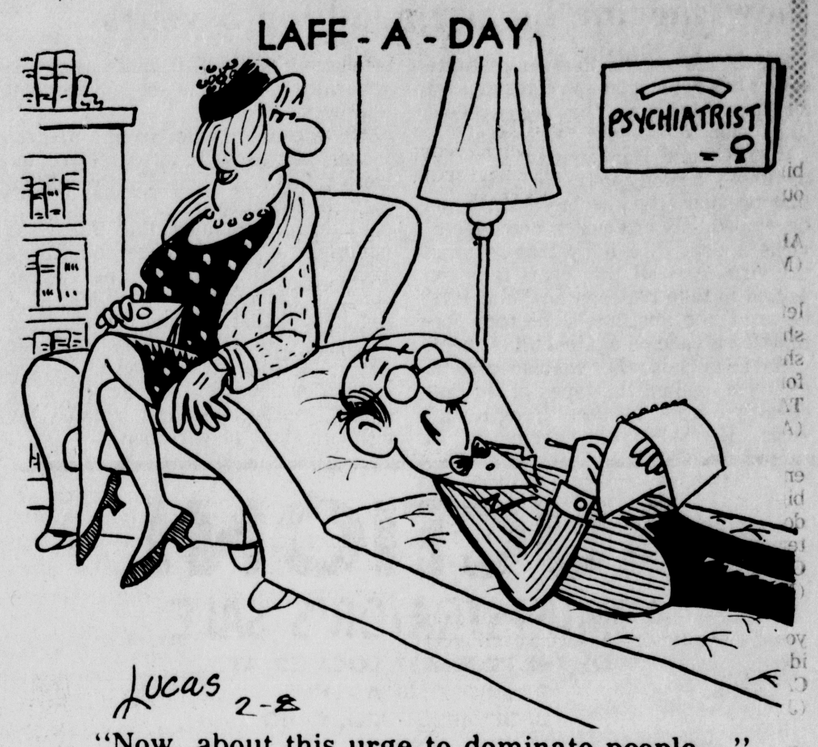

Patrolman Edgar Prater was treated for bites and scratches after the dog jumped him when he came to investigate.

Several tools, a stereo player and tapes were taken from the station.

Indonesians assured

JAKARTA (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has assured Indonesian leaders that "the United States will continue its presence and vital interest in the region and honor its commitments."

New vaccine looks ahead for 5 years

PARIS (AP)—The Pasteur Institute says it has developed a vaccine against all types of influenza that are expected to develop in the next five years.

Prof. Claude Hannoun, head of the institute's ecology unit, said Tuesday that previous flu vaccines have been developed only after each new type of virus appeared. But by transforming the virus into all the forms it is expected to take between now and 1978, he said the institute's doctors formulated a vaccine against all of them.

Hannoun said the vaccine also is effective against the types of flu that developed from the 1969 "Hong Kong" virus. He said the vaccine is in production and will become available generally as soon as the government approves.

The vaccine resulted from a process in which forms of flu virus yet to come were artificially created in the laboratory, Hannoun said.

Hannoun explained that flu virus undergoes a basic change about once every 10 years. Within this 10-year span, it undergoes variations, that regularly defeat existing flu vaccines.

The Pasteur Institute took the basic 1969 Hong Kong strain of virus, fought it with antibodies that forced it to undergo variations, and isolated the ultimate stage of variation.

Blood vessel 'spot welding' fights diabetic eye damage

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A nationwide study of 1,800 persons is being set up to find out whether "spot welding of blood vessels in the eye helps to prevent the eye damage of advanced diabetes.

Sixteen clinical centers across the country are to enroll 100 to 150 diabetics each for the five-year study. All will be volunteers in a study of the most rapidly growing cause of blindness.

A key feature of the planned study is that only one eye of each patient will be treated. And the choice of which eye is to be treated will be done at random to assure objectivity, scientists said.

If in the course of the study it becomes apparent that very good or very bad results are being produced, the treatment will be changed, according to the researchers designing the study.

The study was described Tuesday to a science writers seminar on ophthalmology by Dr. Genell Knatterud, a biostatistician at the University of Maryland, the coordinating center for the study.

The seminar was sponsored by Research to Prevent Blindness Inc., a national research foundation based in New York.

The eye disease to be studied is called diabetic retinopathy, a major complication of diabetes. In 1930, it caused less than one per cent of all new cases of blindness in the United States. Now it is considered responsible for more than 15 per cent of all new cases of blindness.

Two methods of treatment will be tested, both of them including the use of light beams to coagulate the ballooning or bursting blood vessels in the retina that mark the disease.

Hatchery blast brings 'snow'

Big French vote

PARIS (AP) — The opposition Communist-Socialist alliance polled 47 per cent of the votes and the government coalition 36 per cent in the latest survey on French voting intentions in national elections next month.

The survey, prepared for today's edition of Le Figaro, puts the Gaullist majority two points below its showing in the last poll published by the newspaper. The leftist coalition rose by one point.

The shifts were less than those recorded in a poll commissioned by the newspaper L'Aurore last week. It showed the left gaining four points to 47 per cent and the government losing six to 37 per cent.

Taxpayers can deduct some child care costs

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the fourth in a series of five articles entitled "Coping With Your Income Tax." They were written to help taxpayers prepare their 1972 tax returns.

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent changes in tax law give a break to groups as varied as working mothers and Vietnam servicemen.

The rules for deducting the cost of child care and domestic service a taxpayer must obtain in order to be able to hold or find a job have been greatly liberalized.

Payments up to $400 a month for care of dependents may be deducted. Dependents for the purpose of this provision are children under 15, spouses or close relatives unable to care for themselves because of physical or mental illness.

You may deduct payments to domestics such as cooks or maids — but not to bartenders, chauffeurs or gardeners. Nor may payments to household members or close relatives be deducted. Nursery school costs are deductible, but not regular school expenses from first grade on.

IN GENERAL, eligible payments are for services in the home. But in the case of children under 15, away-from-home services may be deducted up to these limits: $200 a month for one child, $300 for two, $400 for three or more.

The deductions are scaled down for incomes above $18,000, one dollar for each two dollars of extra income, so that at $27,600 income no deduction is available.

Disability payments to a spouse unable to work, and annual income above $750, including disability payments, to a dependent 15 or older also act to scale down the deduction.

Married taxpayers must file a joint return in order to claim the deduction and, if both are able-bodied, both must have worked essentially full time or looked for work.

MEMBERS of the armed services may exclude from their report income all or part of the compensation they received for any month during which they served in Vietnam or its adjacent waters, or during which they were hospitalized anywhere as a result of wounds, disease or injury suffered in the war zone.

Enlisted men, warrant and commissioned warrant officers may exclude all their compensation for such months. Commissioned officers may exclude the first $500 of monthly compensation. Beside regular pay, the exclusion covers such things as dislocation allowances, re-enlistment bonuses and awards.

The low income allowance, designed to relieve from income tax all persons below the poverty level, went up for 1972 incomes from $1,050 to $1,300. The change is taken care of automatically in the tax tables for almost all those entitled to use it.

However, it is important to remember that persons relieved by the low income allowance from the obligation of filing tax returns should file anyhow if they had earnings from which tax was withheld. The only way to recover the sums withheld is to file a return showing that no tax was due.

A SPECIAL exception to the no-filing privilege applies to young persons who had some income, but still could be claimed by their parents as dependents.

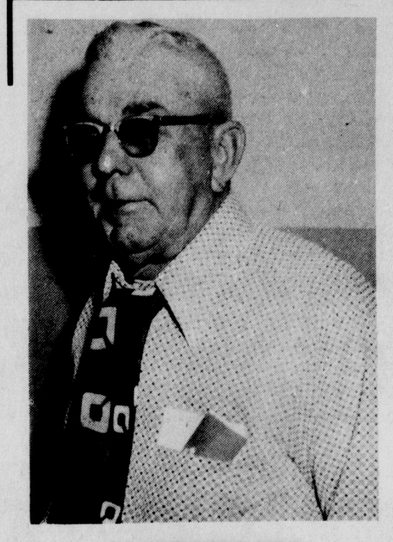

Under the general application of the low-income allowance, a single person with income less than $2,050 would not have to file. But a child in this category who is eligible to be claimed as a dependent and who had at least $750 income must fiel — even though he may owe no tax — if any part of his income came from interest, dividends or other non-earned sources.

For example, a student may earn $800 in a year and have a savings account which pays him $10 interest. He must file, using the long form. He may use the standard deduction, or the low income allowance, only against earned income.

Congress wrote this requirement to block efforts by parents to avoid taxes by transferring substantial income-producing assets to children. A dependent child who has less than $750 income of his own, regardless of the source, need not file.

Special instructions accompanying the tax form apply.

The Arctic lands of Canada have a little known policing force called the Canadian Rangers. Reporting to the Defence Department, the force is comprised of Eskinos, Indians, Metis and a few white men.

'MASKED MARVEL' CLAIMS NEW RECORD — A masked motorcyclist completes a dash through an 80-foot long tunnel of fire at Newport on the Isle of Wight. Officials at the English marina said the unidentified rider set anew record, breaking the old mark of 65-feet 7 and a half inches claimed by Dick Sheppard last August. (AP Wirephoto)

Pamphlet illustrates oil problem

NEW YORK (AP) — While alarm is expressed over the threat of a serious oil shortage, the National Oil Fuel Institute has produced for distributors a little folded advertisement designed for "stuffing" in mail to customers.

It is a classic of mistiming. Simulated on the first page are headlines such as "Electric Customers Suffer 8-Hour Blackout" and "Gas Company Cuts Service" followed by the question, "Aren't you glad you have oil heat?"

More accurately stated, it would read, "Aren't you glad when you have oil heat?" The possibility of shortages seemingly never occurred to the institute, which continues:

"As an oil heat customer, you don't have to worry about being left out in the cold next winter — or for many, many winters.... That's because there's plenty of heating oil around for everyone, and more is being discovered all the time."

Could the industry really have been so shortsighted? Could it have failed to foresee a shortage that was only weeks away?

The answer is complex. Some did see it but, like retirement to a 45-year-old worker, it didn't seem real. Some knew that energy demands were rising, but they didn't foresee the political, economic and environmental obstacles to supply.

A large part of the industry foresaw many of the problems but felt stymied in doing much about them because of the absence of a national energy policy in which government and private efforts were coordinated.

If today's shortages had been foreseen 10 to 15 years ago and effective action taken, we would be nearly self-sufficient today, John McLean, head of Continental Oil Co., said at a media reception to announce 1972 earnings of $170 million.

Instead, the country is highly dependent upon foreign imports while domestic and continental energy supplies remain untapped or underutilized. Only 30 per cent of oil is taken from wells today, for example, before they become uneconomic.

Lake Michigan is 22,400 square miles in area.

Urban renewal planned

Theft, vandalism reports investigated by officers

Several minor thefts and vandalism incidents were investigated by city police and sheriff's departments Wednesday.

Carl Ritchie, owner of Dollar Motel, U.S. 35 and I-71, reported the theft or a portable television set from one of the motel rooms. The theft occurred sometime Wednesday. Loss was set at $125.

A fire extinquisher valued at $30 was removed from a Miami Trace High School bus parked in Bloomingburg overnight Sunday. Cecil Harris, bus driver, said the bus was parked in a lot on Miron Street at the time.

Joyce Massie and Valerie Reno, both of 511 E. Temple St., reported that antennas on their cars had been broken off overnight. The fan belt also was missing from the Massie car. Loss was set at $25.

James Bunch, of 640½ S. Fayette St., reported that vandals had cut his electric lead-in wire, telephone wire and cable television wire Tuesday night. A window in his garage was also knocked out. Damage was estimated at $35.

Wayne firemen name officers

GOOD HOPE — Members of the Wayne Township Fire Department elected officers and were schooled on the use of their air packs at the group's regular monthly meeting at the fire station.

Lloyd Bowers was named president, to succeed Earl Rea; Melvin Pierce is vice president, succeeding Pearl Breakfield; and Gale McConkey succeeds Gerald Roberts, as secretary - treasurer. The new officers will take over at the March meeting.

Paul Breakfield headed the clean-up crew, at work during the session.

Planners reject subdivision plat

A preliminary plat for the Lewisburg Village subdivision, a proposed 16-lot development at Lewis and Campbell streets, was rejected by the City Planning Commission at a meeting Wednesday night.

But Jackie Rayburn, Rt. 1, who had filed the application for approval, was given leave to prepare a new plat for consideration at the commission's next meeting March 7.

Rejection of the first plat followed a long discussion with Rayburn's representatives. The commission's basic objection centered on the general design and street layout.

Members of the Planning Commission are the Rev. Elmer Burrall, chairman; Councilman Donald E. Wood, Edward Fisher, Dr. Warren Craig and City Manager Dan Wolford.

To open the regular meeting of the PTO, held in Madison Mills schools, Max Schlichter and daughter, Dawn, sang several songs, accompanied by Mrs. Rick Stinson.

The seventh grade was awarded a cash prize for having the most parents present at the meetings and Randy Dyer also won a prize.

Dead man said behind 3 murders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus police have accused Joe Bogen, a 39-year-old former Columbus man who was shot and killed last July in a Cleveland after-hours bar of a slaying here in 1969 and a double murder here in 1970.

Police said Wednesday that Bogen, who lived in Cleveland at the time of his death, was the lone killer of Edgar W. Edgar, 52, on June 24, 1969, and Frank Yassenoff, 63, and his fiancee, Mrs. Ella Rich, 51, on March 23, 1970. All of the victims were shot.

Police at one time discounted robbery as a motive in the Yassenoff-Rich murders, but gave that as the motive Wednesday.

Law officers said they believed burglary was the motive in the death of Edgar.

Bogen was killed by James Smith, 24, of Cleveland, his partner in the afterhours bar.

Ballistics experts have identified the slugs taken from Bogen's body as coming from the same gun that killed Yassenoff and his fiancee.

Detectives said Smith got the gun from Bogen for protection while working at the bar. The gun has never been found.

According to police, a .38-caliber revolver, used in the Edgar killing, was traced back to Bogen about two months after the shooting.

Detectives said that while Bogen was being held here on narcotics charges last June he was questioned about the Edgar case. They said he told them he could find the Yassenoff murder weapon if he could get to Cleveland.

Housing subsidy plan continues

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $75 million experimental housing allowance subsidy program will not be affected by the federal moratorium on housing projects, according to Columbus developer and businessman, George Deffet.

Deffet said he received word from HUD on the project's fate Wednesday. He said he was told of the decision not to scrap the program in a letter from Theodore Britton, Jr., acting assistant secretary for research and technology.

Certain low income families would be given direct rent subsidies under the plan. They would find their own housing with the money.

Workers to return

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A spokesman for the Columbus Westinghouse Corp. plant says the 1,500 furloughed workers at the facility may be back to their jobs Feb. 14.

Agrico to build Plant at Tulsa

TULSA, Okla — Agrico Chemical Co., a subsidiary of the Williams Companies, has announced plans to construct a $46,000,000 agricultural chemical complex on the Verdigris River just east of Tulsa's Port of Catoosa.

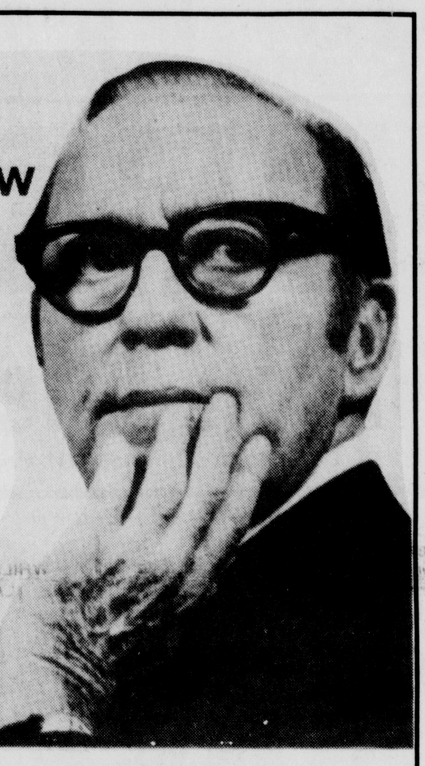

The facility has a design capacity of 425,000 tons of ammonia and 600,000 tons of urea ammonium nitrate solution a year. The supply of ammonia for growing agricultural feedstocks in the United States is short and so the government has given production of this product a high priority for the use of natural gas.

"Most employes of the plant will be hired locally and annual payroll should exceed $1,000,000," Kenneth F. Lundberg, chairman of board of Agrico, said.

The complex would be located on 276 acres of land that borders the east side of the Verdigris River for three quarters of a mile.

Today Agrico has annual sales of approximately $225,000,000 through thousands of dealers in the U. S. and abroad. The company has 17 plants in the U. S. and Canada and is one of the world's largest suppliers of phosphate rock from its mines in Florida.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rich Little gained a measure of fame by doing uncannily accurate vocal impressions of such folk as John Wayne, President Nixon and Ed Sullivan. It's caused him a few problems.

One involves little people, usually between the ages of nine and 10. They stomp up to him and insist on doing their impressions. Another problem occurs when he speaks in his own voice.

He keeps getting asked, "Who are you doing now?"

Little, in town to do a voice or two on ABC's Jack Paar show, talked about the performing life and related matters during a hurried dinner at a big hotel here.

"I'm like the piano player," he mildly groused. "Wherever I go, people are always wanting me to get up and perform, even on the street.

"It's just lately that when I'm on the road that a lot of kids who are studying impressions come into the dressing room and go through their routines.

"There was a 10-year-old in Oklahoma I remember well. He came in and opened with Ronald Colman. Then he went into his Ed Sullivan—eight minutes of introductions—and then went into Walter Pidgeon, another one of his favorites."

How does Little deal with these verbal urchins?

"I never criticize them," he said. "They're too young for that. I picture myself at their age and I used to do what they do, too."

Little, a regular on ABC's "Julie Andrews Show" and a fair actor and singer when he isn't doing voices, was born in Ottawa, Canada. He got into show business because of his classmates in school — they cheered his impressions of their teachers.

His first engagement was at a club in a Quebec mining town. The job paid $15 and the patrons paid no attention.

"Not only did they not react, but they didn't speak English," he said. "It's a wonder I didn't get into aluminum siding right then."

As the years went on, his fame grew and so did the voices in his repertoire — he now can do about 125. Singer Mel Torme got him his first big break in U.S. television in 1964.

But his real start in America began with his first engagement at a night club in St. Petersburg, Fla. He warmed up the audience for the headliner, Joan Fairfax and Her All-Girl Orchestra.

He admits to being a basket case when he first went on. He also recalled doing Ronald Coleman and Walter Pidgeon imitations, but other details were hazy? What happened afterwards?

"Nothing too much," Little said. "I went into my room and cried and worked on my Walter Pidgeon."

Law enforcement funds received

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has given Ohio $11 million as part of the state's 1973 Omnibus Crime Control Allocation, David Sweet, Ohio Economic and Community Development director, said Wednesday.

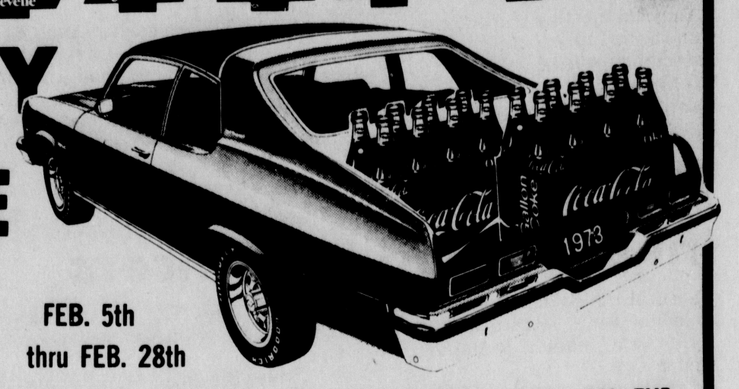

The money will be used for the continuation of criminal justice programs and for correctional facilities and programs, according to Sweet.

Sweet said that chances appear good that the state will get nearly $28 million that his department requested from the federal enforcement administration.

WCH hopes to grab chunk of SCOL title

A bit of everything

The 1972-73 statistical study of high school basketball schedules submitted to the Ohio High School Athletic Association discloses an increase in the number of mid-week games being played by Ohio schools.

According to the OHSAA's monthly newsletter, schools that have scheduled mid-week games have moved the starting time of the games to an earlier hour and have scheduled games with schools in the immediate area as Washington C.H. did with East Clinton and Madison Plains.

During the 1958-59 season, the first year that statistics were compiled, indicates that 26.7 per cent of all basketball games were mid-week compared to 7.21 per cent for the 972-73 season. In the 1968-69 season only 1.31 per cent of the total number of games played of the mid-week type.

Another interesting bit of information from the OHSAA newsletter says beginning in the 1973-74 basketball season, padding will be required along the bottom and sides of rectangular backboards.

Skirmish at Circleville Friday holds key to Lions' cage hopes

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

A bubbling challenge looms for Washington C. H.'s title-hungry Blue Lions Friday night.

At least a chunk of the 45th South Central Ohio League championship will be hanging in balance for head coach Gary Shaffer's fifth Washington C. H. team when it challenges perennial toughie Circleville.

The game, like Miami Trace's a week ago, will be staged in Circleville's junior high gym located on Mill St.

THE RASCALLY Blue Lions, hoping to hoist their first undisputed SCOL pennant in almost two decades, are alone atop the SCOL pack with a 6-2 chart and need a win dearly to grab at least a share of this year's title.

Whatever happens in the SCOL title race between now and Feb. 16 when the new champion is finally crowned, the Blue Lion cagers will be able to look back to Friday's shootout with Circleville as probably the most crucial date of the whole year.

A win would send Washington C. H. into a title-bearing showdown with Miami Trace next Friday night, while a loss would throw the tight SCOL standings into a three-way knot between the winner of the Miami Trace - Wilmington skirmish and Circleville.

The Lions, who have emerged with victories in four of their last five games, will tote a 9-6 all-games worksheet into Friday's risky road jaunt.

CIRCLEVILLE has dropped its last two SCOL games, but the most important was the 57-56 setback to Miami Trace a week ago which helped Washington C. H. capture sole ownership of the top SCOL perch.

Head coach John Lawhorn's gang, which shows a 5-3 SCOL log and is involved in the snarled three-way logjam for second place with Miami Trace and Wilmington, snapped a three-game nosedive with a 75-55 non-league win over a weak Hamilton Township team last Saturday night.

The Tigers, shocked by Washington C. H. 60-54 in the first meeting between the two teams at the WSHS gym, are hoping to be sitting in an uncomfortable three-way first place tie when the smoke clears from the Circleville junior high floor.

Dave Truex, the tireless All-SCOL cornerman, has been of the primary weapons in sparking Circleville to a 10-4 all-games record this season.

The smooth-shooting 6-foot-0 charmer ranks third on the SCOL scoring list with a nifty 17.9 point per game average and has bagged 17.5 points a contest against SCOL opponents.

Dan Graham, a slick inside ace, will also be a problem when Shaffer makes his defensive arrangements Friday. The rangy frontliner has been averaging 15.5 points per outing.

Greg Hoskins, a smooth 6-foot-1 senior, has also contributed a bulk of Circleville's scoring punch. The hard-working forward has a 13.9 scoring mark.

LAWHORN HAS inserted John Ankrom, a 6-foot-0 junior, into the backcourt in Circleville's last two starts in hopes of providing more scoring, but scrappy 5-foot-10 junior Robin Martin contributed 23 points in the nerve-racking loss to Miami Trace.

Others at the veteran Tiger mentor's disposal include Glenn Gillespie, a 5-foot-10 senior, and junior Doug Radabaugh.

Undisputed possession of first place in the SCOL reserve standings will be up for grabs when Washington C. H. and Circleville match 6-2 records in the preliminary games at 6:30 p.m.

Lion Cubs enter Jr. High tourney

SABINA — Washington C.H.'s eighth grade basketball team will be participating in the annual Sabina Junior High invitational basketball tournament which opens Saturday at the Sabina Junior High gym.

Four teams are entered in the tournament which opens Saturday and concludes Feb. 17, according to Roger Murphy, the tournament director.

Kings Mills will meet Wilmington in the opener at 1 p.m. Saturday and Washington C.H. (2-6) and Sabina (11-1) will clash at 2 p.m. The championship game will be staged at 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 17 and a consolation game will be played at 1 p.m.

Murphy said admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

OSU, Minnesota players hope for peaceful game

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "We just can't worry about the feelings behind it. We just have to go out and play a normal game," said Mark Wagar.

The lean 6-foot-8 senior forward hasn't even scored in his brief Ohio State basketball appearances this season, but he was one of the principals in the game-ending brawl at Minnesota last year.

The Gophers visit here Saturday in a nationally-televised contest (1:30 p.m. EST) in the Big Ten Rivals' lone meeting this season.

Wagar again will ride the bench. However, he has some thoughts about the famous rematch after being hospitalized after the contest in Minneapolis Jan. 25, 1972.

"There's got to be a lot of feeling behind this game," admitted Wagar. "But I don't anticipate any trouble.

"It should be a great game," he added. "We're coming on and they (Minnesota) have proven themselves."

Luke Witte, 7-foot Ohio State center also detained in a Minneapolis hospital overnight with injuries from the melee, is concerned about a sellout St. John Arena crowd of 13,489.

"I just hope the crowd treats them like any other opponent and gets behind us," said the big senior, who regained his starting job in the 70-69 upset of league-leading Indiana Monday night.

Ron Behagen, suspended with Gopher teammate Corky Taylor for his part in the brawl said he isn't going to worry about playing before a hostile road crowd.

"It's just another game," said the 6-foot-10 Gophers' senior forward. "If something weird is going to happen, it's going to happen anyway."

Irish zone drops curtain on Michigan State, 85-72

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan State's basketball team spent a week in South Bend Wednesday night.

At least it must have seemed that way after a long, long night with Notre Dame.

"We played a horrible game," said Michigan State Coach Gus Ganakas after dropping an 85-72 decision to the Fighting Irish. "As the second half wore on, we became more disorganized and they got stronger through organization."

The "organization" to which Ganakas referred was Notre Dame's tough zone defense. It no doubt looked like the Twilight Zone to Michigan State's lost Spartans.

"Our zone at the end of the game won it for us," said Notre Dame Coach Dick "Digger" Phelps. "When we started to stall with about three minutes to play, we were up by six points. And after that, we just pulled away."

In other games Wednesday night, No. 3 Long Beach State walloped San Diego State 97-76; 12th-ranked Providence defeated St. Joseph's, Pa., 81-75 and No. 17 San Francisco beat Santa Clara 78-69.

Michigan State had a 35-34 lead over Notre Dame at the half, but buckled under a second-half assault led by the Fighting Irish's Gary Novak. He scored 18 of his 24 points in the last stanza.

Nate Stephens scored 24 points for a season high and Ed Ratleff fired in 23 to pace Long Beach's victory; Providence won behind Ernie DiGregorio's 26 points and San Francisco walloped Santa Clara as Phil Smith and Mike Quick each scored 19 points.

Elsewhere, Fairfield beat St. Bonaventure 72-60; Penn State turned back Temple 64-49; Sam Houston State, the nation's No. 1-ranked college division team, topped fourth-ranked Stephen F. Austin 81-67; West Virginia nipped Rutgers 71-68; Marshall defeated Miami 68-59; LaSalle blasted Canisius 97-85. Kent State trimmed Pitt 74-68 and Duke smashed Wake Foresst 84-71.

Huntsman steps down as ISU grid coach

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)— Jerry Huntsman is stepping down as head football coach at Indiana State University to become assistant athletic director.

Huntsman has been coach here seven years and will continue his duties as coach until a replacement is found. Indiana State had a 7-3 record this past season, winning its last five games. Huntsman's best season was in 1968 when the Sycamores were 9-1 and he was nominated for small schools coach of the year.

UC football status pondered at meeting

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The future status of football at the University of Cincinnati was scheduled for debate today at a faculty senate meeting.

A faculty committee has been studying the school's athletic program, which has had dwindling fan support blamed on competition with the Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League.

MAC Council of Presidents ponders league expansion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The close-knit Mid-American Conference Council of Presidents meets here Friday with league expansion the No. 1 item on its agenda.

Officials are tight-lipped about additional growth pains for the league that expanded to eight teams with the acceptance of Eastern Michigan and Central Michigan in 1971.

The presidents meet in closed executive session with only MAC commissioner Fred Jacoby joining them. They seldom announce results of the meeting immediately either.

Ball State and Northern Illinois are mentioned as prime contenders for the ninth and tenth spots in the conference if the presidents elect to expand the league again.

"In essence, I would favor expansion," Jacoby said. "For the matter of coverage, it would be an advantage to have more states and would help our potential television exposure."

The commissioner, however, made it clear he does not speak for the independent-thinking presidents, headed by Chairman Phillip R. Shriver, the Miami of Ohio president.

Jacoby did acknowledge there were new applicants for the league, but he would not divulge their names or even say how many.

"If the presidents decide to take in one or two new members," Jacoby continued, "I don't look for an announcement right away."

The commissioner said he believes conference officials would want to visit the newcomers' campuses to go over final details first.

"We're talking about a longterm marriage, not a short courtship," Jacoby said of any new members.

Ball State, located in Indiana, and Northern Illinois would give the conference two additional states.

Nicklaus leads Hope golf clash

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus said the putting greens were rough, joking, "I couldn't hardly get a thing in."

He smiled broadly as he told how close he came to losing his ball in the rough.

Despite such "misfortune," professional golf's premier performer blistered the Indian Wells Country Club course Wednesday with a first-round 64—eight under par—in the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Two strokes behind were veteran Gay Brewer and two tour non-winners, Bob Barbarossa and George Johnson. Another stroke back at 67 were Charles Coody, the 1971 Masters champion, Canadian Ben Kern and two-year pro Dwight Nevil.

The newly planted, frostburned greens at Indian Wells were "probably the roughest" of any in this four-course, 90-hole marathon in which pros team with amateurs for the first 72 holes, Nicklaus said.

Yet the Golden Bear from Columbus, Ohio, required only 28 putts, three of them from 30 feet for a lone bogey. He had an eagle three on the 468-yard 14th hole with a 25-foot putt.

On the 18th tee, his shot went to the right into foot-high rye grass.

He used a seven iron to escape the rough and parred the hole.

USOC chief faces ouster

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Arthur Lentz, $30,000-a-year executive director, is slated to be the main victim of a shakeup this weekend in the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The former University of Wisconsin publicist, administrative head of the USOC since 1966, will be replaced by his present assistant director, Col. Don Miller, a source close to the situation told the Associateed Press today.

Philip O. Krumm, the incoming president, declined to discuss the report other than to say: "There will be some important changes in our organization—yes, they will affect Olympic House. But I can't reveal them for a couple of days."

Krumm is a 66-year-old former sales representative from Kenosha, Wis., who succeeds Clifford Buck of Denver, a retired sporting goods executive, as USOC president in the organization's darkest hour.

Around 150 delegates poured into this fashionable winter resort today to attempt to regrid America's greatest amateur sports body, already deserted by major colleges and under heavy fire from Congress and a militant, college-backed group known as The Committee for a Better Olympics.

Wright State assured of even season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the first time ever Wright State has insured itself of at least an even collegiate basketball season.

Wright State, which entered collegiate sports three years ago, defeated Marian of Indianapolis, Ind., 91-68 Wednesday night. The victory gives Wright State an 11-4 season mark, with seven games remaining.

In other Ohio college basketball, Kent State blew a 13-point lead but charged back in the last half to defeat the University of Pittsburgh 74-68.

Marshall's aggressive Thundering Herd roared to an early lead and was never threatened in taking a 68-59 non-conference victory from Miami. The victory upped Marshall's record to 14-6, while Miami dropped to 12-6.

Miami Coach Darrell Hedric said he saw "nothing positive" in his team's effort.

"We weren't ready to play. Then we got too far behind. Marshall's fast break really hurt us. We weren't getting back. That shows a lack of being ready to play.

"We just have to start all over," Hedric said

Ohio Dominican, forced to play its best ball when behind, dropped Mid-Ohio Conference Leader Rio Grande 92-77. The Panthers shot 49 per cent from the field and owned the boards, 53-32. They had been behind 35-15 with nine minutes remaining in the first half, but surged back with a 32-point performance by 6-foot-6 center Ken Richardson.

Akron went on a second half scoring spree in its 97-66 victory over Gannon College of Pennsylvania. The Zips, after leading by only 37-36 at halftime, utilized a zone defense and scored 61 points in the second half.

California State College of Pennsylvania used stall tactics in its game with Steubenville, but saw them backfire as the Barons pulled out a 19-17 victory. The margin came on Jim Garrigan's three-point play in the closing seconds.

Clifford Pratt's 31 points paced Shaw College of Detroit in its overwhelming 107-73 victory over Central State University.

Defiance needed two overtimes to defeat Bluffton 88-86 in the Hoosier-Buckeye Conference.

In other games, Depaul defeated Xavier 89-67, Wooster trounced Marietta, 71-53, Youngstown had an easy time with Baldwin-Wallace, 88-50, Oakland defeated Ashland 114-97, Malone squeaked by Tiffin 89-85, Urbana romped over Walsh 71-56, Thiel barely defeated Hiram 68-67, Cleveland State had just as much trouble beating Wayne State 65-64, and Wilmington defeated Manchester 70-58.

School principal flattened in 1st Golden Gloves test

MIAMI (AP) — Dr. Von N. Beebe, a grade school principal who wanted to see what it was like to be hit, has flunked his first Golden Gloves boxing test.

"I smelled the sweat and felt what it was like, so I have no regrets," said the 32-year-old Beebe through a bleeding lip. "It was an experience, believe me. But I learned something."

Beebe, principal of Leroy D. Fienberg Elementary School of Miami Beach, suffered a pounding and then lost on a second-round technical knockout to Ken Ryals in the 160-pound, subnovice class (five bouts or less) of the Florida Golden Gloves tournament Wednesday night. It was Beebe's first bout.

Ryals caught the long-haired Beebe with a short left seconds after the start of the match, sending the educator sprawling on the seat of his red trunks.

But Beebe, a muscular former rugby player at Dartmouth College, scurried to his feet at the eight count and waded back in against Ryals, a 23-year-old carpenter from Homestead, Fla.

However, as Ryals said after the bout, "He just kept walking into my left."

Beebe, looking fresh despite a cut lip and a blue lump over his left eye, said he was far from disappointed in his performance.

"The other guy was better. He knew how to hit, and I couldn't protect myself. I was getting hit because my hands were too low," the former Bronxville, N.Y., man said.

But Beebe said he felt he succeeded because "I got the taste of defeat and that's something .... You learn something."

Will Beebe continue boxing?

"Certainly, but I wouldn't want to do it all the time," he said. "I feel good and I have no regrets."

Teacher residency suit is returned

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A suit against a residency requirement for new teachers in the Cincinnati school district has been returned to Hamilton County Common Pleas Court by the U.S. District Court.

The Cincinnati Teachers Association originally challenged the regulation in the state court charging it deprives pupils of the best available teachers and discriminates against suburban teacher candidates.

Male telephone operators find new jobs interesting

DETROIT (AP) — Although some men's libbers may label it "tokenism," Michigan Bell is making an effort. Why, .011 per cent of its 5,400 information operators across the state are men.

And the 60 male operators reachable at "411" seem to enjoy their work, and much of their enjoyment comes from the weird reactions they occasionally get when they boom "new number assistance" in their best baritone.

They said some customers gasp, stammer, apologize for dialing the wrong number or just hang up.

"A lady reached me last week and asked when I go out for lunch," said James Taylor, an information operator.

But, the 21-year-old former prep football player is no easier to get a date with than his female coworkers.

"I told her I was having lunch with my parents," he said.

And four-month veteran Paul Davenport, 21, said he once had a female on the line who wanted to get together with him after work and talk about their "hang-ups."

"One nice lady," recounts Davernport, "called in and told me: 'Young lady, you should take care of that sore throat. You sound just awful."

Women generally seem to like being helped by males more than males do, they said.

"You're not as fast as the ladies and you're probably not as cute either," was what one man told Davenport.

And a female operator said there are occasional female chauvinists who don't expect as much from male operators.

"The same lady who would call a female operator dumb and stupid," she said, "will tell fellows: 'Take it easy.' 'Take your time.' "

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is Your Cough Productive?

A cough represents one of the most common symptoms that may or may not be brought to the attention of the doctor.

A cough is frequently associated with any kind of upper respiratory infection. The common cold, the grippe, and the flu often leave in their wake a cough which may vary from simple irritation to one that is disquieting and distressing.

Patients often buy over-the-counter medicines in the hope that any one product, even those haphazardly chosen, will be the answer to their cough. In some instances, a cough is alleviated by these products. In others, the cough may be unaffected.

In order to better understand why a "shotgun" mixture of over - the - counter cough medicines should not routinely be used, the mechanism of a cough should be more clearly understood.

A cough means that there is some irritation along the respiratory airways, including the throat, the pharynx, the larynx, the bronchial tubes and the lungs.

Inflammation of the lining of the breathing apparatus, infection, irritation like tobacco smoke, harsh chemicals, and swelling of the lining by allergy may produce the cough. This entire reflex action is one of the mostly carefully designed protective mechanisms in the body.

WHEN an irritant is present, anywhere along the air passages a signal is sent to a very specific point in the brain, the cough center. From here, further signals are sent to the lungs, the diaphragm and the muscles of the chest, telling them that an explosive cough is necessary to get rid of the offending irritant.

Some coughs are dry, hacking, and "non-productive." This means that no secretions are brought up.

Others are "productive" coughs, which means that mucus and pus, the result of an infection, must be cleared from the respiratory tract.

It is apparent, therefore, that different drugs are used for different types of coughs. It must be apparent, too, that self-medication is not the ideal way to treat a persistent cough.

Even though many of the available products are excellent, the choice must be made more carefully than by the imprinted messages of advertisers.

Some coughs must be suppressed. Others must be stimulated. Sometimes it is necessary to "loosen" a cough. Other times it is necessary to "dry up" a cough.

In some cases, codeine, one of the ingredients in drugs purchased without a prescription, may be the wrong drug for the cough.

It is important to note that codeine, a narctoic, can in many states be purchased without a prescription. Drug addicts quickly learn the availability of such cough medicines and make their daily rounds of purchases to supply their daily needs.

A simple rule of safety is to ask a physician's advice. Often he can, even by telephone description, decide on a cough medicine that would be most effective.

It must be mentioned, of course, that a persistent cough associated with other symptoms may be indicative of a tremendous variety of complex illnesses, the nature of which must be determined by the doctor.

Opening lead - king of hearts.

This deal occurred in a pair championship. As happens so often, the many results differed strikingly fron one another. Games and part scores in spades and diamonds were attempted with varying success, but the play was generally most interesting at those tables where the contract was five diamonds.

There was nothing complicated about the play at most of these tables. West led the king of hearts and continued the suit after East had signaled with the eight or nine.

Declarer ruffed, cashed the A-K of trumps, and finessed the queen of spades. East took the king and returned a club, but South rejected the finesse, since he had a sure way of avoiding the club loser by taking the ace, playing three rounds of spades, and discarding a club from dummy. As a result, declarer made five diamonds at these tables.

But he would not have made the hand had the defense been sharper at trick one. East should have overtaken the king of hearts and returned a club. Had he done that, South would have gone down one.

It is surely not an extraordinary play for East to take the king with the ace in order to lead a club. He can reasonably assume that West's heart bid was based on a five-card suit, which in turn means that declarer has only one.

East should count on the ace of hearts and king of spades as two tricks for the defense, and he should be willing to stake his all on the hope that a club play from him at trick two will produce a third trick.

He should not adopt a passive attitude by allowing West to win the opening lead. Clubs clearly have to be attacked at trick two, and, obviously, the club lead has to come from East.

Final Vietnam USO closes

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — "The USO Is Closed."

The red, white and blue sign on the door spelled the end of an era for the hundreds of thousands of war-weary GIs who wandered inside looking for a hamburger or a friendly face.

After nearly 10 years of trying to provide a bit of America in an unfamiliar land of rice paddies and conical hats, the last USO in South Vietnam posted the notice today.

There was no music, no formal announcement, not even free chili dogs or milkshakes to mark the occasion. Just a few startled civilians and soldiers who came to have a snack, play pool or just hang around for a while.

"I don't believe it," said Sgt. Jack Rains of Miami, Fla. "I got down here after 10 months and it's closed! I guess that's the way things go."

Though all the food and entertainment facilities are closed, USO director Michelle M. Chalfont said the building will be open for information and stateside phone calls until all the American servicemen are out of South Vietnam March 28.

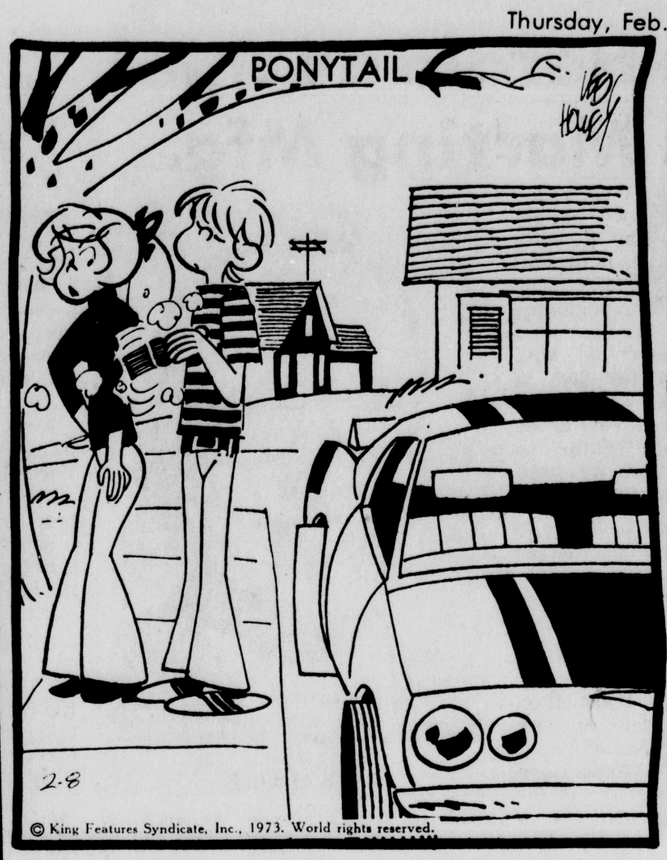

Mrs. Chalfont, whose parents live in Eau Claire, Wis., said the U.S. Command had asked the USO to close "to keep the troops out of the downtown Saigon area," where the two-story club is located.

In recent daily bulletins, the Command has warned that assaults and armed robberies in Saigon are occurring at "an alarming rate." The Command is urging American personnel "to stay out of Saigon unless on official business and not to travel in groups of less than three persons."

A handful of servicemen showed up at the club today, some for its last sightseeing tour of the city and cruise down the Saigon River.

Coast Guard group arranges schedule of future events

The U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 8-6, at a regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce office, discussed several upcoming events and conducted a Courteous Motorboat Examination Seminar for members.

Commander Jim Runnels presided at the business session during which plans were made for a Multi-Media First Aid course to be held Feb. 18 and Feb. 25, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., at the Landmark Town and Country auditorium.

The spring conference of the group will be held March 2-3 at Scot's Inn, Springfield. Flotilla 8-6 will bring a centerpiece arrangement, made by one of the Washington garden clubs, for use on the dinner table during the conference.

Flotilla members discussed the safe boating course, now in progress, in which interested boaters may still participate at 7 p.m. Monday evening in the Landmark conference room, Old Chillicothe Rd.

The second annual Safe Boating Queen contest will be held June 24 at Rocky Fork Lake. The regional contest will be Aug. 11-12 for all Ohio Coast Guard division winners.

Eight members and a guest, Dave Ford, attended Wednesday's meeting. Anyone interested may attend future meetings, including the one March 7.

Dog obedience course assured

Enough enthusiasm prevails to make another series of obedience classes a "must" for the Paint Valley Kennel Club. There is still time to sign up other dog owners before the first meeting Monday evening.

Pet owners are asked to come alone — no dogs — from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building at the Fayette County Fairground for the first session. The $20 fee will be payable for the 10 classes, on consecutive Mondays. Owners will go through an orientation session, learning what equipment they should have, and Mrs. Elmer Haymaker, instructor, will answer all questions.

If a sufficient number of Kennel Club members, who already have taken their dogs through the course, are interested, they are eligible to have a refresher course, free of charge, for their pets. This course is to be held from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Mondays.

The public is invited to sit in on all classes. Mrs. Carl Wilt and Mrs. Haymaker will take reservations for classes.

The number of families in Canada increases by about 100,000 each year.

Authorities trace stolen cash, checks

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Hamilton County law authorities are trying to trace $135,000 in cash, checks and merchandise taken Monday morning from Pogue's Department Store in the Kenwood Shopping Center.

Authorities announced the amount taken following an inventory Wednesday. Two safes were cut open and the burglar alarm had been bypassed, they said.

Birth-control pill skunk weapon

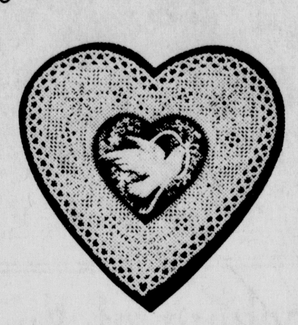

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP) — Birth-control pills are the latest weapon against skunks.

A $25,000 project to hide the pills in dates—a favorite food of skunks—was approved Tuesday by Imperial County supervisors.

The county has been declared a rabid area because past efforts to eliminate skunks have been ineffective.
